

City funds Briarcliff area drainage study

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

Granite City may lack the funds to build a ditch to drain water away from the flood-prone Briarcliff-West Pontoon Road areas, but administrators have given an engineering firm the go-ahead to draw up plans for the project.

The ditch would both carry water to the larger North Granite holding pond and would act as a rainwater storage area.

HEAVY RAINS continue to swamp the Briarcliff residential area and to make necessary the periodic barricading of West Pontoon Road. The construction of the Briarcliff retention pond, a less-expensive alternate drainage system, has failed to plug the flooding problems, according to Fourth Ward Alderman Sharon Perjak.

Last week, the council hired the engineering firm of Reitz and Jens, Inc., St. Louis, to study the best way to proceed with the connection of the Briarcliff and North Granite ponds. City Engineer Monroe Brewer estimates the ditch would be 20 to 30 feet long, probably no more than six

State suspends Head Start

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

The regional office of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services has suspended with the intent to terminate Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission's (EOC) sponsorship of the Head Start program.

Carol Werner, who has been on administrative leave since Dec. 5, reported the findings after the Head Start Policy Council Chairman Debbie Buchanan and EOC officials met in Chicago with regional officials Monday to discuss EOC's financial inability to operate the program.

HEAD START classes have been cancelled since Dec. 8 because of EOC's financial problems.

She said the suspension is effective immediately and the regional HHS office will do everything possible to speed the appeal process so that Head Start classes can resume soon.

William Sullivan, regional supervisor for the Head Start program, did not directly confirm or deny the decision of his office. He said he would not reveal the decision until EOC officials received a letter from the department.

"MISS WERNER and Debbie Buchanan were at the meeting and they know what happened," Sullivan said. "That might be the decision we made, but I don't want to discuss it until EOC receives its letter. Things can change between the meeting and the time the letter comes out."

Sullivan would not discuss the outcome of the meeting because he wanted EOC board members to know the department's intentions

LIGHTING THE TREE. The lighting of the Christmas tree at the Granite City Hall is applauded by Mayor Paul Schuler, Pam Enyart, left, and Steve Flinn, Tuesday afternoon. The two helped the mayor throw the switch illuminating the 20-foot Colorado blue spruce donated to the city by Mrs. Robert Schultz. Students from Sacred Heart-St. Joseph School sang Christmas carols and members of the Granite City High School Band, directed by Joseph Owens, played several seasonal selections during the annual tree-lighting ceremonies. Mother of DUI victim feels this week is important

By SUSAN SIGNAIO-GWEICH
of the Press-Record

During National Drunk and Drugged Driver Week this week, residents throughout the country are being reminded, not only of the dangers of drinking and driving, but also of the dangers of driving sober.

One such sober victim of a drunk driver was Robin Kennedy, an 18-year-old Mckinstry Brook, Ill., girl whose death has led her mother on a campaign for stricter drunk driving penalties.

Robin and her boyfriend, Jeff Murphy of Granite City, were driving on the Great River Road in Jersey County at about 10 p.m. on April 24, 1982. The two were heading on their way to Robin's home because she had promised her mother she would be back early.

WHILE DRIVING on the road, Jeff yawned a couple of times, so Robin—who had been taught that driving with a sleepy driver was almost as dangerous as driving with a drunk driver—offered to drive. Jeff agreed and pulled off on the shoulder of the road. He applied the emergency brake and turned on the hazard lights.

Jeff then slid over the seat to the passenger side and Robin got out of the car and went around to the driver's side. Once inside, she adjusted the mirrors and seat, and an instant later, Jeff's car had been hit, first swaying one way, then the other.

Jeff called for Robin, but he couldn't find her. Finally, he saw her and realized she was hurt. He pulled her out onto the road and covered her up with some jackets he had in the back of the car.

HE CALLED for help. A car with a young couple in it stopped. "You've got to help me, my girlfriend's hurt bad," he said.

The couple went to get help and Jeff went over to Robin. He looked at her and saw that she was breathing. He watched her chest rise and fall. Then he noticed a pool forming underneath of Robin's head. It was blood.

Police arrived shortly thereafter and told Jeff to go sit in the car and stay there. A police officer observed Robin lying on the ground and checked for a pulse and other signs of life, all with negative results.

THE POLICE officer called an ambulance to come take Robin's body.

Police then examined the driver of the other car. He and his two passengers were unharmed. The driver was tested for signs of intoxication and was found to have slurred speech, he also failed a series of coordination tests and smelled of liquor.

Tests taken two hours later revealed that the driver had a blood alcohol content (BAC) of .302, or three times the legal limit for intoxication. The driver was charged with driving under the influence (DUI) and reckless homicide.

THREE HOURS later, at 3:15 a.m., two state troopers knocked on Dorothy Kennedy's door. She was told her daughter had been killed in a car accident.

Three days later, 12 hours after Robin's funeral, Mrs. Kennedy was still in shock about her little girl. She decided to join an organization called Mothers Against Drunk Drivers (MADD).

She later went on to start a local chapter of Remove Intoxicated Drivers (RID) to help her cope. They held their first meeting five months later, in November.

DURING THAT month, her daughter's "killer" was tried. He was sentenced to 90 days in a minimum security facility. It was his fourth conviction for DUI.

In an effort to keep the drunk driver from injuring anyone else, Mrs. Kennedy is telling her story to newspapers, radio stations and television stations throughout the area this week. She is "obsessed" with RID and with getting citizens concerned about the problem.

"IT WAS MAD when the accident happened, and I'm still angry today, one and a half years later," she said.

"Something has got to be done." One of the ways, Mrs. Kennedy believes the drunk driver problem can be helped, is by instituting laws

New DUI bills take effect on Jan. 1

Each year, 26,000 Americans die and 1.5 million are injured by drunk drivers. Partially due to the large number of deaths, the state of Illinois will be instituting four new Senate bills, effective Jan. 1, 1984.

Senate Bill 125 will require a 48-hour mandatory jail term or 10 days of community service for a second conviction of driving under the influence (DUI). There presently is a pilot program being conducted in Cook County, where convicted drinking drivers are being referred to participate in community service which brings them in contact with persons who have been injured in alcohol-related motor vehicle accidents.

SENATE BILL 173, sponsored by Senator Sam Vadalabene (D-Edwardsville), will provide a greater distinction for a charge of illegal transportation of alcoholic beverages. Presently, the law disallows the transportation of open alcoholic beverages and may apply to either the driver or a passenger in the vehicle. Basically, this proposal will allow the distinction of whether the arrested person is the driver or a passenger.

This will allow the secretary of state's office to properly assign points to a driver record if he or she was the driver, and to not assign points if the arrested person was a passenger without responsibility for the operation of the automobile.

Senate Bill 174 will make a 30 consecutive day jail sentence mandatory for driving while revoked following a conviction for DUI, reckless homicide, leaving the scene of a fatal or personal injury acci-

1,450 families seeking help

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

A record that no one wanted to see broken has been achieved by the local Salvation Army Corps, which now faces the gigantic task of supplying help to more than 6,000 individuals this Christmastime.

More help is needed from everyone to fund requests produced by the record-breaking total of 1,450 applications for Christmas aid. It was learned this week.

THE TRADITIONAL "Tree of Lights" drive is progressing slowly toward the $35,000 goal and currently stands at $22,000, or about 64 percent of the minimum amount needed.

"The 1983 goal will not be sufficient to fund the enormous number of people needing assistance this year," Captain Lavern Poling,

Heated race for state's attorney

The snow is snowing (about an inch is expected today), the wind is blowing and the temperature is falling, but candidates for 1984 hope to weather the storm. Already, political activity is beginning to heat up in Madison County.

Filing began Monday, and those seeking the Democratic nomination for state's attorney both filed that day. Dick Allen of Granite City and Steve Maragades of Madison. Filing will end next Monday.

Vacation near

Quad-City students attending public and parochial schools will begin Christmas vacations on various dates, but all will return to school on Tuesday, Jan. 3, for a regular schedule of classes.

Venice, Madison and Granite City Public Schools will be dismissed at the close of classes on Thursday, Dec. 22, to begin vacation on Friday through the New Years.

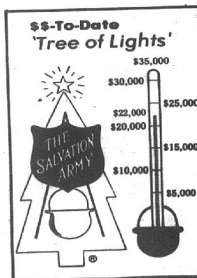

St. Margaret Mary, St. Mary-St. Mark and Sacred Heart-St. Joseph Catholic schools will hold their final day of classes on Wednesday, Dec. 21, and St. Elizabeth will dismiss pupils at the end of classes on Thursday, Dec. 22.

Stephanie Robbins of Edwardsville indicated she will not compete with Allen and Maragades.

On the Republican side, those planning primary races are State's Attorney Don Weber and James Heil of Godfrey. Weber filed Monday.

Also filing on the opening day were incumbent Democrats Arthur "Pete" Fields for county auditor, Willard Portell for circuit clerk.

Dixon seeks to reauthorize SIU-C coal research grants

U. S. Senator Alan J. Dixon (D-Ill.) has cosponsored legislation to reauthorize a training and research program to help develop new technologies for coal use.

Dixon's legislation, S. 2186, would reauthorize the state "Mining and Minerals Resources Institutes" under Title III of the Surface Mining Act of 1977. Southern Illinois University-Carbondale is recognized as a qualified institute under this act.

This program, which is scheduled to expire on May 15, 1984, provides federal matching funds for qualified mining and mineral resources institutes at one public university or college in each state. Each institute is directed to conduct research in mining and mineral resources and to train mineral engineers and scientists.

While the program has helped train engineering students at Southern Illinois University and other state universities across the country, the administration has sought to discontinue funding, Dixon said.

The legislation would:

- Extend authorization period for five years through Fiscal Year 1990.
- Authorize total appropriations of $7.5 million for Fiscal Year 1985, and increase by $1 million each year, from Fiscal Year 1986 to Fiscal Year 1990.
- Authorize each qualified institute to be eligible for $300,000 for Fiscal Year 1985, and an additional $100,000 for each of the remaining four years.

—Increase the matching requirement for each institute from $1 for non-federal for every federal dollar spent to $2 for every dollar spent by the federal government beginning in Fiscal Year 1987.

"I believe that promoting the use of Illinois coal through new technologies developed by Illinois engineers is the first step in lessening our dependence on foreign energy sources. The administration has made an unfortunate decision in trying to end this program. I am hopeful our bill will pass, and that science education will continue to be adequately funded by the federal government," Dixon said.

GC OFFICER ALLEGES THAT MOTORIST IS DUI

After seeing a motorist allegedly make a looping left turn from St. Clair Avenue onto Edgewood Avenue and then further continue to drive erratically, an officer followed the car and arrested the driver, Donald E. Snow, 56, of 2821 Kilgore Drive, in the driveway at his home late last week.

Snow declined to take a breathalyzer test and was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol. He was released at 2:35 p.m. Saturday after posting a $102 cash bond.

before revealing the action to the press.

John Ervin, president of the EOC Board of Directors, would not discuss the meeting until he has the chance to speak to the members about it. A meeting of the board has been scheduled for Saturday.

According to Miss Werner, the suspension could last 60 days or longer, depending on the length of the termination proceedings. If EOC would voluntarily end its sponsorship of the program, classes could begin as soon as Jan. 2. She said EOC will appeal the regional office's decision.

Head Start classes in Madison County will remain closed until appeal proceedings are completed.

"It could be a year [until the appeal process is over], but the regional office wants Head Start to operate and wants children back in the schools. I think we can be back in operation this spring, because, to them, it's intolerable that children aren't in classes," Miss Werner said.

"I'M DISAPPOINTED about the long disruption of classes for the children. I thought the action was inevitable, and in the long run, it's going to help the children," she said.

"It's disheartening to see the children deprived of the absolute necessities and I'm sorry it's taking the toll that it is."

The only state money EOC is receiving is in the Community Block Grant Program, and Tom Laue, a spokesman for DCCA, said that would not be enough to begin paying the debts.

OF THE money frozen by the bank, approximately $105,000 was part of a Head Start payment to the agency. The regional office is considering legal action to get that money out of the bank.

According to Miss Werner, the regional office would not accept EOC's request to wait for the EOC's ad-hoc committee to reach a decision because it saw no way the committee would raise the money to pay EOC's debts.

Previously, Miss Werner made allegations EOC had signed over $17,000 of Head Start money into various EOC funds, including the EOC contribution fund. She and Mr. Buchanan also charged EOC had violated federal guidelines several times concerning the changing of the program without permission of the policy council.

Briarcliff drainage

feet deep, and about 2,000 feet long. The ditch would run down the North Granite side of railroad tracks, running parallel to the two ponds.

MAYOR PAUL SCHULER said the study will be financed through the approximately $6,000 remaining of Community Development funds set aside for drainage projects. The connecting ditch is part of a master drainage plan to solve several flooding problems, but those plans have been placed on hold while the city tries to fund the repair of numerous sanitary sewer lines.

Although funding is still uncertain, Brewer said Mrs. Perjak believes the serious nature of the flooding calls for the project to at least be started.

Following a heavy rain last June, the council approved Mrs. Perjak's motion to seek bids for the connecting ditch, but had no engineering firm to prepare the bids. Mrs. Perjak's recent motion to hire Reitz and Jens also follows recent heavy rains that flooded portions of her ward.

REITZ AND JENS is expected to begin the study immediately and to complete it in about two months. The city engineer said the connecting ditch has probably been needed for about 20 years.

Brewer said the Briarcliff pond was never intended to serve as a "be-all and end-all" for that area's drainage problem. The city constructed the smaller Briarcliff pond after Lucifers Estate residents objected to a larger pond being built near their homes. The city rejected another plan to install a larger underground central stormwater sewer line, due to its potential cost.

ANOTHER DRAINAGE plan on hold is the construction of a North Granite curb and drainage system to more effectively channel rain water into the North Granite drainage pond.

In related council action, aldermen accepted ownership of the Briarcliff retention pond from C.D. Peters Construction firm. The approval hinges on an inspection of the pond and its pump house by Mac Warfield, street superintendent.

The superintendent said he has requested permission to inspect the pump house in the past, but his efforts have been unsuccessful.

"We NEED people to get interested and concerned about the drunk driver. I'm not calling for temperance — I'm just asking people to not go driving after drinking."

"And if people see a drunk driver, they should report the driver to the local law enforcement agency by calling them on the phone or CB radio."

"I don't want anybody else to have to suffer a loss like I did with my daughter. But until the public takes a get-tough attitude with the drunk drivers, people will continue to be killed daily."

or canned goods are being asked to do so before Tuesday, Dec. 20. The items may be taken to the Salvation Army Corps Community Center, 3007 E. 23rd St.

This weekend, members of Alnad Shrine Temple will be ringing the bells at the bright red Christmas kettles to aid the "Tree of Lights" drive and the public is being asked to respond as generously as possible to meet the urgent need for more funds.

Dr. Frank Gornick, provost of the Granite City Center, chairman of the 1983 campaign, said volunteers from the Granite City Rotary Club raised a total of $1,250 while soliciting donations around town last weekend.

KILL GERMAN SHEPHERD Jack Rodgers, 2440 Adams St., said during the weekend that someone killed his German Shepherd by feeding it cut glass or poison. The dog, considered friendly, was bleeding from the mouth when found, the owner reported.

HOWEVER, he and his wife are desperately trying to keep up their mortgage payments of $244 a month, plus pay utility bills and he needs a little help during the holidays.

All applications submitted to the Salvation Army are screened carefully, but in a compassionate manner, and the available funds are stretched to cover the needs of as many people as possible, Capt. Poling explained.

Plans were being made Wednesday to purchase some extra toys to meet the overwhelming number of requests prior to the distribution of baskets next Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 21 and 22.

Frank's Tax Facts

Did you know that each year we Americans overpay our income taxes by millions of dollars simply by overlooking legitimate tax deductions on our personal income tax returns? For example, are you aware of the fact that you may be able to deduct up to 20¢ per mile for driving your personal car on your job? In addition, you may also deduct the business portion of your automobile interest, state and local taxes, parking fees, and tolls. These deductions are available whether or not you itemize your other deductions. Form 2106 should be used to reflect these expenses. City politics a way of life?

In a talk with Madison Mayor Mike Saszyk yesterday, the mayor made some interesting points, but none which would cause us to back down from our editorial stand in last Monday's Press-Record that the mayor's possible influence over the Madison School Board should be a concern for citizens of that school district.

Saszyk said he may have some influence in the school district, but in more than a dozen years, has never exerted it, except to recommend hirings in a few leadership cases.

He says if he finds a widow trying to live just on Social Security and barely getting by, he may ask the school administration to hire her if an opening exists.

Saszyk admits there is politics in the school district, as in most other areas of Madison life. "This is a political city. Everybody knows that and there's nothing wrong with it," Saszyk says, noting that the residents have paved alleys, free garbage cans and collection, good streets and snow removal, a low crime rate and many other things that make Madison a good place to live.

Our concern was that the seven-member school board contains three city employees and an alderman who must try to get along with the mayor in order to get things done in his ward. Saszyk responds, "Have you ever tried to control (Alderman) Don Garrett?" referring to Garrett's independence on the city council.

On the other side, Saszyk admitted some control of the school board when he said that if Pam Dymas (widow of the late school board member Sam Dymas) had come to him to ask to be on the school board, she would have received his support and would be on the school board today.

He said city organization help in school board elections is important to assure a fair voter turnout from all parts of the city and the election of a representative and efficient school board. We left the meeting with mixed feelings. We stand firm behind Monday's editorial concern, but agree that we can think of no specific instances where Mayor Saszyk has abused his influence with the school board members. We accept his pledge that such abuses will not happen in the future.

Gets tougher on drunk drivers

During National Drunk and Drugged Driver Awareness Week, victims and their families have been speaking out against drinking and driving. And it looks as though the drunk driver had better start paying attention.

In Illinois alone, four new "tougher" drinking and driving laws will go into effect on Jan. 1. This clearly shows that the trend of citizen sentiment is going away from the drunk driver and to the family of the victim.

And well the sentiment should be going in that direction. Almost 60 percent of fatal crashes involve a driver who has been drinking. And more than two-thirds of those crashes involve a driver who has a blood alcohol content higher than the legal intoxication limit of .10.

A driver with this level of intoxication is six times more likely than a sober one to have an accident. With a blood alcohol level of .15 percent, the likelihood increases to 25 times greater. At .20 percent, the likelihood of an accident occurring elevates to 100 times greater.

Year-end warning to tax cheats

Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Roscoe L. Egger Jr. recently offered some good year-end advice to would-be last-minute tax savers. He said there were four factors that will guarantee a tax audit: "tax shelter, tax shelter, tax shelter, tax shelter."

With December a traditional advertising period for such tax savings promotions, the IRS is trying to discourage people looking for a fast buck because abusive tax shelters account for a large part of our nation's shocking tax loss.

Tax shelters are investments made to take advantage, through huge write-offs, of tax benefits in industries that the government is trying to promote for development. Some examples are real estate or oil and gas exploration. Financial analysts generally urge caution on tax shelters because the honest investments will require more than one month to build up any appreciable savings.

Last year, the IRS completed audits of 95,998 taxpayers who used "abusive tax shelters," assessing them $1.6 billion in back taxes. It also reportedly has approximately 300,000 other tax shelter cases involving both promoters and investors set for examination.

Investment tax shelters aren't the only tax abuse. A similar ploy is to donate a gift to a charitable group, then over-value the gift in order to claim an excessive deduction.

Altogether, the IRS estimates that the U.S. Treasury lost about $81.5 billion in unpaid taxes in 1981, which was more than that year's entire budget deficit of $65 billion. Most of that amount was attributed to individual tax cheats, not corporations.

A lone bandit, who did not display a weapon, ut said he had a gun under his jacket, held up the Hiway Cafe, on U.S. Highway 67, north of Granite City, last night and fled with $30 which he forced a waitress to hand over.

The waitress, Mrs. Alberta Vincent, a cousin of the proprietress, Mrs. Ethel Vincent, said the youthful bandit told her to "keep your mouth shut and give me the money from the register." As she

The efficient bandit staged his stick-up so quietly that two other customers in the restaurant went on playing a pinball machine unaware of the incident until Mrs. Vincent shouted after the youth ran from the building. He fled in an old model car and apparently was alone.

Two-hundred years ago Saturday, the "Boston Tea Party" dramatized the issue of taxation. On the anniversary, nearly 300 persons crowded the Nameoki Township Hall to protest assessment increases they believe will increase their property taxes to a level that will reduce their homes' attractiveness and value.

Charging discrimination against Nameoki Township because it was singled out for the start of county-wide reassessment, the group organized to take legal action.

Families present contributed $2 each toward a fund to finance litigation. Carl Runge, an attorney living in Collinsville, was selected to represent the group.

"Take the commercialization out of Christmas and put Christ back in the season."

Alan Gerstenecker, Press-Record sport editor

"That's an easy one to answer. My message would be one for peace on earth. For warring nations, regardless of their religions, this Christmas holiday, to come together for peace. For mutual compassion for citizens of the earth. For a mutual understanding between the United States and the Soviet Union on arms, missiles and third world allies. That sounds like a lot. doesn't it? But that's the spirit of Christmas."

Name Madison's football field for Dymas

To the Editor:

There is no question in anyone's mind that the late Sam Dymas liked sports and liked children. I was very happy to see this point made in Monday's paper by a Granite City resident.

I would like to publicly ask the Madison School Board to consider naming the Madison High School football field after the late Board President Sam Dymas—perhaps, the "Sam Dymas Memorial Field."

Sam's heart was with the Madison schools and the children of the entire Quad-City area.

We in Madison have no city parks or ball diamonds that are worthy of Sam's memory.

Our senior high football field even would not come close to honoring our memories of Sam, but I feel it is the best we have in Madison, and Sam deserves the best—as he gave us in Madison his best.

Fine line between discipline and beatings

To the Editor:

I think it is time for the parents who feel they have been falsely accused of abusing their children to speak out in their own defense.

What is child abuse? Is there a published definition of child abuse or is it left up to state employed investigators who have to justify their salaries on a personal case-load basis?

Is child abuse a good old-fashioned lickin', a slap in the face, on the arm, on the shoulder? Or is child abuse broken arms, cigarette burns, black eyes, skull fractures, teeth knocked out, I could go on and on.

Were our parents of the 1950s and 1960s so wrong in administering corporal discipline, teaching us right from wrong? I don't think so. I still love and respect my parents for what they stood for, and taking the time to correct a disobedient, mischievous and sometimes unmanageable child. I never thought at the time that what they were doing was preparing me for the future.

Being a parent of three children, I often look back and try to remember how my mother and father handled specific situations. Now, in today's society, that same disobedient, mischievous child, if disciplined, is an act of degradation or perversion on the part of the parent. My parent now become labeled the perpetrator and the child is said to be mentally unhealthy or unstable.

Should we as parents stand by and allow this gross misinterpretation of the law affect the parenting of our children? What do you think?

A PARENT

Perpetuate the memory of Sam Dymas

To the Editor:

I must agree with Don Garrett and Roger Belshe concerning the late great hero of children and people, my good friend, Sam Dymas. Every word that these two men have said about Sam is true.

Sam was a man who got things done. The Venice Park District has nothing but high praise and thanks, for Sam.

It was Sam who came down and got our softball field in tiptop shape. We his own children.

Sam was a straight-forward person: black or white, he would tell you just like it is.

I really respected Sam for his honesty and fairness. Anytime we needed help here in Venice for the children, Sam was there to give it.

Since Sam gave his time and his life to help somebody else, surely his spirit alive by naming something in his memory.

I am willing to work with anybody on this project. I am sure that a team or something will be named after our great friend and the children's hero, Mr. Sam Dymas.

To Pam, his wife, and the children, we were still praying for you and the family.

Thank you for sharing your husband and dad. It was just his way of making people happy. God will keep you in every way, because he loves you all day by day.

Thank you for his giving of himself. When God made Sam, he knew He had made a man. May God bless the Dymas family.

State lottery is a winner for Illinois

The Illinois State Lottery, which took seven and a half years to reach its first billion-dollar sales mark, has reached the second billion-dollar sales level less than two years later.

Governor James R. Thompson said that of the total $2 billion in sales since the lottery began in July 1976, the lottery has provided $860 million to education and other human services programs in Illinois and has awarded its players more than $820 million in prizes.

"The lottery's profits, which have grown substantially over the past two years, go into the state's General Revenue Fund and are helping guarantee all Illinois citizens a quality level of education and other important services," the governor said.

"As just one mark of the lottery's growing importance to the state, in the last fiscal year it was the fourth largest state source of revenue to the General Revenue Fund, following only income taxes, sales taxes and public utility taxes."

"Just slightly more than two years ago, the lottery was the ninth largest state source of revenue for the 'general fund.'"

Thompson attributed the growth in Lottery sales and profits in the past two years to the work of Michael J. Jones, superintendent, the introduction of new games and the implementation of new marketing techniques.

Two games introduced since the first $1 billion sales level was reached in January 1982 have proven to be extremely popular among lottery players.

The Lotto game, which has awarded grand prizes ranging from $1 million to $6 million to 25 players since it began 10 months ago, has had total sales of $116 million. This week's winner received $2.5 million. Pick 4, which began in February 1982, has posted total sales of $84.2 million.

The most significant growth has been in the lottery's seven-year-old instant games, which have seen almost half of their total sales in the past two years.

Since January 1982, instant game sales have been $241.3 million. In the five previous years, instant game sales were $205.3 million.

Jones said instant game sales had declined significantly by fiscal year 1981, when they reached only $42 million. Instant game sales in the last fiscal year, 1983 (July 1, 1982, to June 30, 1983), reached more than $157 million, more than triple the fiscal 1981 level.

Instant game sales in the first three months of this fiscal year alone, $41 million, almost matching the total fiscal year 1981 level.

He attributed the increase in instant game sales to change in the games themselves and in the games' marketing.

"About two years ago, the games became simpler and more fun to play, prizes became larger, and ways of qualifying for the instant games' grand prizes became standardized. New creative advertising and promotional programs stressed the simplicity and fun inherent in the games," Jones related.

"The Daily Game, which was introduced almost four years ago, has continued its rise in popularity."

In the past 23 months, Daily Game sales were $538.6 million, compared with $34.7 million in the previous 23 months.

Over the same time periods, average weekly sales of the Daily Game have increased from $3.5 million to $5.6 million.

Jones noted also that about $360 million of the lottery's total sales since it began came from games that have been discontinued, mainly because of diminishing player interest.

The lottery's two original games, both started in mid-1974, included two weekly games, the 50-cent game and the $1 game. Both of those games ended in fiscal 1981 and contributed a total of $353.1 million in sales before they ended.

Illinois also offered lottery tickets through a subscription plan in the first seven years. By its end, the subscription plan had yielded $6.8 million in total sales.

In addition to the profits returned to the people of Illinois, and the prizes paid to winners, the state lottery has paid $134 million in commissions to the lottery's ticket agents — small retailers throughout Illinois — and to other vendors who provide games to the lottery.

Of the lottery's total profits of $860 million, Jones estimated that more than $323 million has gone to education and more than $261 million to other health and social services programs.

The remaining profits have been used to support other state programs, including public protection and justice, income support, and natural resources and recreation.

CHECKS, CURRENCY TAKEN

Four checks totaling $225 and $5 in currency were stolen from the parked auto of Pam Hays, 1620 Sycamore Ave., last week in a parking lot at Pontoon and Johnson roads.

IPA report shows recession is not over

New reports show that six percent of all Illinois Public Aid (IPA) recipients residing in downstate Illinois live in Madison County. IPA rolls have increased by 31,560 persons between November 1982 and November 1983.

Despite a general improvement in the nation's economic climate, the caseload increases show the recession is not over for a significant number of Illinois residents," said Carl Mankowitz, acting public aid director.

In November, there were 1,048,943 persons receiving assistance statewide, compared with 1,080,403 in November 1983. Public Aid rolls reached their highest point in March 1976, when 1,097,336 persons received assistance. The lowest caseload total in recent years, 936,869, was reached in November 1979.

Mankowitz said persons on public aid often are the "last group to feel the effects of an economic recovery." He pointed out that while the increase in persons on aid is significant, increases in 1979 and 1980 were much greater.

The number of recipients in Cook County rose by 13,600 persons (1.9 percent) over the one-year period, while downstate totals increased by 17,960 persons (4.4 percent). Cook County accounts for about 67.5 percent of the total number of persons receiving public aid.

Those applying for public aid also have shown a marked increase. In August 1983, for example, an all-time record high number of applications (16,778) was received in local public aid offices for the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program. Among these applications processed, 36.7 percent were denied assistance. Application rates for September, October and November have not surpassed the August figure but have remained at high levels.

August also brought 1,506 new families onto the AFDC rolls.

Caseload totals include persons receiving AFDC, State Supplemental Payments, Interim Assistance to the Aged, Blind or Disabled, Medical Assistance and, in Chicago, General Assistance. The general assistance program is administered locally in downstate counties.

Arrest pair walking from parked vehicle

Receiving a report of two youths in a vehicle at Route 3 and Rock Road, officers found an unoccupied station wagon at that location at 4:45 a.m. Tuesday.

Gerard E. Bulva, 19, of 1230 Iowa St. and a 15-year-old Madison youth were seen walking east on Rock Road and were taken into custody near W. 20th Street. The youth was charged with a curfew violation and released on notice to appear for a hearing.

Bulva was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Illinois State Police were notified and the vehicle was towed to a local garage after it was alleged to be obstructing an intersection and no valid registration was evident.

ALLEGED MAN STOPS TRAFFIC

A charge of disobeying a peace officer was filed this week against Eddie L. O'Dell Jr., 21, of 4040 Kathy Drive after Madison police received a report of a man halting traffic in northbound lanes of Madison Avenue at 10th Street. A man said he needed a ride home but declined to accept a ride from an officer and was advised to leave the area. He allegedly cursed the officer and was arrested, being released on notice to appear at a Jan 27 court hearing.

Mehelic reports drainage project nearly complete

By PAT HAYLUTZ
for the Press-Record

The Miracle Manor-Bellemeor drainage project is "99.9 percent completed," Nameoki Township Highway Commissioner Frank Mehelic announced Monday night during the regular meeting of the Nameoki Town Board.

According to Mehelic, two areas remain unfinished and the project has taken so long to complete because "labor has been very expensive." The two areas yet to be completed are in Arlington Heights and on Ivy Lane.

Several Ivy Lane residents attended Monday night's meeting to discuss the drainage problem in their area, and suggested that they had been "very patient" in waiting for their drainage problems to be eliminated, but are annoyed with having to contact Mehelic to pump water from their street every time it rains.

"We've had this problem for some 10, 12, 15 years," one resident complained. "They know that we can't easily have up to eight inches of water standing every time it rains, but we still have to call every time."

and he (Mehelic) is never there. Since they know it happens every time it rains, why do we have to call?" he added.

Mehelic agreed to supply a temporary solution with the use of a portable pump, which would be used in connection with a hose that would drain the water to the west end of Ivy Lane along Maryville Road.

Township officials then agreed to a suggestion by Supervisor Harry Briggs that a survey be conducted "to see what is wrong and what could be done about it." Slowness of drainage improvements in the area led the board two weeks ago to issue an ultimatum for Mehelic to complete the project immediately or it would be contracted out to a construction firm.

In other business, Clerk Lee Ridgeway read correspondence from Mehelic's attorney, H. Carl Runge Jr., which responded to charges by Trustee Lee Adams that Mehelic had used township funds to pay Runge for representation in a personal lawsuit against Mehelic.

According to Runge, the lawsuit involves Mehelic in his professional capacity as the highway commissioner, and Runge is representing him only in that capacity.

"It is our contention that whatever action he took to make Lake Drive between Highway 162 and State Aid 35 passable during heavy rains was in his official capacity as highway commissioner," Runge stated in the letter. "The law office of Lakin and Herndon is representing Mr. Mehelic in his personal lawsuit."

Runge added, indicating that township funds were not used to pay for fees incurred during representation in Mehelic's personal lawsuit.

Supervisor Harry Briggs also announced that energy assistance applications are being accepted daily from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the township office. The township began accepting applications last Thursday, and approximately 100 applications had been filed as of Monday.

Commenting on the energy assistance program, Briggs said, "We're very happy that Madison County took this program over (from the financially-disabled Economic Opportunity Commission), and we look forward to them taking over other worthwhile programs like the weatherization program as well."

Biggs announced the holidays for 1984, indicating that the township office will be closed on the following dates: Jan. 2 (New Year's Day), Feb. 13 (Lincoln's Birthday), Feb. 20 (Washington's Birthday), April 20 (Good Friday), May 28 (Memorial Day), July 4 (Independence Day), Sept. 3 (Labor Day), Oct. 8 (Columbus Day), Nov. 6 (Election Day), Nov. 12 (Veterans Day), Nov. 22 (Thanksgiving), Nov. 23 (Day after Thanksgiving), and Dec. 25 (Christmas).

Senate candidate Corcoran unveils his TV advertisement

U.S. Representative and Republican Senate candidate Tom Corcoran has unveiled his latest television advertisement, which directs sharp criticism onto the foreign policy views of his primary election opponent, Senator Charles Percy. Highlighted is Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Percy's record on opposing the spread of Communism throughout Latin America.

The commercial alleges that Percy voted against the U.S. policy of opposing Cuban expansionism last year, despite its endorsement by President Reagan, and says the veteran senator supported sending $75 million to the Communist government in Nicaragua.

At a press conference, Corcoran also criticized Percy for having voted against capital punishment in 1978. Corcoran says crime remains a serious problem in Illinois and urged approval of a pending federal proposal to control.

Corcoran is sponsoring eight anti-crime bills, one of which would allow for execution of those convicted of homicide, treason or espionage. Other bills include one which would mandate a five-year prison sentence for anyone found to have possessed a firearm in the commission of a federal felony, and second offenders would serve no fewer than ten years.

"It's unfortunate that the fear of crime is so much on people's minds," said Corcoran. "Americans deserve better protection, and the passage of these proposals would be progress toward that."

EAST ST. LOUISAN PLEADS INNOCENT TO CHARGES
Walter C. Rice, 50, East St. Louis, pleaded innocent in the Granite City court Monday afternoon to driving while his license was suspended, transportation of alcohol and public consumption of alcohol. Bond was set at $200 and a mittimus was issued for transfer to the county jail.

Rice was arrested while seated in a car outside a store in the Bellemeor Village Shopping Center during the weekend. Officers were called to the scene in response to a report of a man causing problems in a store.

Stronger probation supervision planned

A strengthened statewide probation system is envisioned as a result of a law giving the Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts responsibility for overseeing the restructured program.

Part of the solution to easing the problem we face in overcrowded Illinois prisons is in a reformed state probation system. In an effort to tackle this serious situation, we worked closely with the sponsors of the legislation and representatives of the Illinois Probation Officers' Association," Gov. James R. Thompson says.

"While this system will have obvious short-term benefits by helping ease some of the pressure on state corrections facilities, it also will give long-term stability to an overworked and understaffed probation system in need of reform," he added.

"This measure is a major step toward professionalizing the probation system and giving it a viable pre-trial screening element."

The legislation requires the Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts to establish a Division of Probation Services which will coordinate and further develop guidelines for the program, as well as monitor progress under the new system.

House Bill 2317 contains two key provisions that are the framework for the legislation: an intensive supervision program for lesser offenders, and more probation officers to meet professional caseload standards.

Chief management officers and additional probation officers will be named to individual counties and any multi-county probation regions from a list of applicants supplied by the Administrative Office of the Courts, which will oversee hiring and training in the system.

County probation regions, under the plan, will be drawn by the chief circuit judge.

Other elements of the legislation include:

1. Reimbursing counties for the full cost of any additional probation officers who must caseload standards and steps outlined in the bill. Salaries for chief management officers in probation regions will be fully paid by the state.

2. Increasing to $500 the state's monthly subsidy for each qualified probation officer to help offset office space, equipment and support services costs. The current funding level is $400 each month per officer.

3. Giving probation officers "peace officer" rank, enabling them to carry firearms while carrying out official duties.

4. Providing full state funding for personnel and travel expenses incurred by probation officers in meeting the guidelines of HB 2317.

The legislation makes the department of Corrections director an ex-officio, non-voting member of the Criminal Sentencing Commission, which is given authority to evaluate the reformed probation system.

Thompson approved a $1.9 million supplemental appropriation measure on Nov. 23, funds that will be used to revamp the system beginning April 1, 1984, and lasting through the end of the current state fiscal year.

In the following year, $12 million will be used in the program.

The measure, effective immediately, was sponsored by Representatives John Matijevich of North Chicago and James Marzuki of Park Forest and by Senators George Sangmeister of Mokena and Adeline Geo-Karis of Zion.

In other legislative action, the governor has given final approval (certification) to House Bill 768, which establishes procedures and rights for police officers under investigation by their department.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy J. Butler

Mr. & Mrs. Butler marks 25 years

Mr. and Mrs. Billy J. Butler of Madison, were guests of honor at a party to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary given by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edward (Pamela) Faith and Mrs. Butler's mother, Mrs. Tiny Smith. The social event was held at Brandy's, 1001 Iowa St., Madison, and the owners, Harry and Betty Hellum served a buffet dinner to the many friends and neighbors attending. Decorations were carried out in a pink and silver decor featuring a cake frosted in pink and silver with pink roses, and topped with a miniature bride and groom, centering the main table. The honorees received many gifts including silver wine goblets, from their children, and used for the many toasts during the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Butler were married on Nov. 15, 1958.

C.D. Peters awarded boat ramp contract

By PAT HAY LUTZ for the Press-Record

During a short meeting Tuesday night, the Venice City Council members gave formal approval to the low bid submitted by C. D. Peters Construction firm to complete the boat ramp project. Subject to the approval of the Illinois Department of Conservation, which is supplying the grant for the project, the bid accepted by the council is $36,452.

Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols also announced that he will contact the Southwestern Area Agency on Aging to assist with transportation of senior citizens, a program currently crippled by the temporary shutdown of the Economic Opportunity Commission (EOC). Alderman John Ervin, who also is the chairman of the board of directors of the EOC, also suggested that Echols contact the Madison County Transit Authority for assistance.

Echols closed the meeting by wishing everyone a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

Old Six Mile studies Christmas in foreign countries

The Old Six Mile Historical Society celebrated the Christmas season at its December meeting with a potluck dinner. The dining tables were decorated with evergreen sprays and candles. Georgia Engelke and Marguerite Lezore served as co-chairmen for the dinner.

A change in the date for the January meeting was announced due to the Jan. 2 observation of New Years. The revised meeting date will be Jan. 9 at Central Christian Church, 2020 Johnson Road.

The Granite City Optimist Club has announced that it will sponsor an essay contest for high school students. The essay topic will be on local history. A $500 scholarship will be awarded to the winner. Mrs. Engelke, the author of "Old Six Mile," has been asked by the Optimists to serve on this committee.

The speakers for the Six Mile group's program were introduced by Mrs. Lewow. In keeping with the Christmas Season, the society learned about Christmas customs in three foreign lands. Tomea Kirchoff told how the season is celebrated by Macedonian people.

Jennifer Dippel, a native of New Zealand, talked about the holidays in her warm homeland.

"New Zealand lies half way between the equator and the south pole. It's summertime in New Zealand at Christmas."

The people of New Zealand are mostly English but have their own Christmas customs. Most people go to church, usually a Protestant church. The Anglican Church or Church of England is predominant, but there are also Presbyterians, Methodists and some Catholics.

Christmas Day is spent eating a lot. The food is often cold food, suitable to the climate. Many people take their vacations over the Christmas season and most businesses close for five days.

The first lunch of the season is saved for Christmas dinner. New potatoes and the first green peas of the season were served with it. Many mothers refused to let their children eat any fresh peas before Christmas. The traditional plum pudding and trifle, a dessert made of stale cake, sherry, custard, fruit and topped with whipped cream, ended the meal.

The next day they celebrate Boxing Day. According to English custom, the servants were given gifts wrapped in boxes on the day after Christmas. Boxing Day is celebrated at the shore with Cricket games and swimming. Many people go camping.

There are no Christmas trees in New Zealand because of the hot dry climate. Decorations "consist of streamers of ribbon and bells."

Mrs. Dippel said, "New Zealand is a relatively new country. Many New Zealanders are English and Scottish ancestry. They have maintained some of the traditional customs but have had to make many of their own."

"I cried my first Christmas in America because there was no snow. All the American Christmas cards I had ever seen showed snow. I was so disappointed," she said.

The traditional Christmas cake is baked two months ahead and wrapped in cloths soaked in liquor. On Christmas, families go to friends' and relatives' homes to eat Christmas cake. The goal is to eat 12 pieces of cake in twelve different places to assure 12 months good luck.

"They don't have Santa Clause, but have a visit from Father Christmas. Instead of coming in a sleigh, Father Christmas arrives in New Zealand on water skis or a surfboard."

Ann Turner, a native of Germany told about Christmas in Germany.

"The holidays in Germany are a time for the family. The celebration centers around family life and children. It's a magical time," she said.

The Christmas season starts with the four Sundays of Advent. The advent wreath sits on the dining table. After the candles are lit, starting with one candle on the first Sunday and adding one more with each Sunday, the family sits around the table and sings Christmas Carols.

Angels play an important part in the German celebration of Christmas. The children write their Christmas letters to the angels and it is the angels who keep the lists of good little boys and girls. "My mother told us when the sky turned red in the evenings, it was caused by the angels baking Christmas cookies. Children are told the Christ Child brings gifts on Christmas," Mrs. Turner explained.

Santa comes on Jan. 6 with gifts. He brings cookies to good children, sticks to bad children.

In Germany a 13th month paycheck is traditionally given as a Christmas bonus. This money is used for Christmas shopping.

The whole time of Christmas is celebrated by the family. On Christmas Eve most go to church at midnight. There is a nativity play given by the children.

Food is another important part of the celebration. There is a special cake called a stollen which is made with pounds of butter. German houses are built with an entry hall. The rooms open off this hall. About two weeks before Christmas the living room door is shut and the tree isn't seen until Christmas Eve. "I might peek through the keyhole but I usually didn't see anything. On Christmas Eve, mothers would ring a little bell and call all of us together in the hall. She told us that the angels were almost finished with their work (they decorated the tree). Finally she would open the door and the tree and gifts were all there. The impact of seeing the tree all decorated was great. It was magical. Customs are customs, and you can't change them," Mrs. Turner concluded. Following the speakers, the members were treated to the "Pogacha" which Mrs. Kirchoff brought. The large loaf was broken and the pieces smeared with fresh butter.

The speaker for the next meeting of Old Six Mile on Jan. 9 will be Ruth Jensen. Her topic will be the Branding Family.

Violence detrimental to Illinoisans' health

By WM. L. KEMPINER
Director, Illinois Public Health Department

It's the time of year for making predictions, so I'm going to join the crowd and make a public health prediction.

What will be the leading public health problem in the United States in the year 2000? I predict it will be violence — aggravated assault, rape, robbery or accidents, but especially homicide and suicide.

We are all aware that violence is already a serious problem in our nation. And the tragedy of violence is compounded when we realize that most of its victims are our young people.

Right now, homicide and suicide rank fourth and fifth as causes of death among young people.

In Illinois, the death rates among young adults from homicide and suicide have increased dramatically over the past ten years. I predict they will continue to rise.

One reason violence will probably become a major public health problem rather than a law enforcement problem is the fact that the increase in deaths from homicide and suicide can be traced to the abuse of drugs and alcohol.

But there are other reasons. The American homicide rate is much greater than that of most other industrialized nations.

Many major aspects of our American social structure are involved in determining whether or not a young person will engage in violent behavior: the family, the community, the educational system and the economic structure.

Recent studies of homicide reveal two important insights. First, most homicide victims are killed by someone they know. Second, nearly half of all homicides are associated with arguments between the victim and the assailant.

Obviously, then, most murders are committed as a result of some kind of a relationship between the victim and the murderer. This means that the prevention of violence will be mostly beyond the control of law enforcement agencies, because relationships between people, especially family members, are not apt to be influenced by legal agencies.

People's attitudes, too, play an important part in violence. For example, an approving attitude toward violence within the family is likely to foster even more violence.

Violent acts are also closely associated with stressful conditions such as poverty, overcrowded housing, little education and unemployment.

Therefore, I believe that, in the future, public health agencies will become committed to preventing violence through health education and public awareness of the causes of violence.

In the past, we fought smallpox, polio, typhoid, diphtheria and other killers by learning how to prevent them. In the future, we will be increasing our attention, efforts and resources to learn how to prevent violence.

County lists 192 November deaths

The office of Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles recorded 192 deaths in November, as part of the monthly statistics tallied by the county.

Last year, during the same period, 150 deaths were reported.

The county recorded 270 births: 137 females and 133 males. In November 1982, there were 208 births.

The number of marriages last month was 188, down 21 from November of last year.

POLICE RETURN, BOOK MAN
Charles G. Widel, 20, of 2736 Willow Ave. was charged there at 11:50 p.m. Monday with resisting a peace officer and battery. Officers first responded when Widel allegedly hit his brother, Philip Widel of the same address, 15 minutes earlier. The dispute appeared to be settled but revived after police left. On the return trip, force was needed to make the arrest, it was related.

STOOL STOLEN FROM CURT'S
A man walked out of Curt's Grill, 1623 Madison Ave., carrying a high-back stool from the video games area and placed the stool in a black pickup truck, an employee notified police this week.

Bigger Social Security benefits two weeks away

The Social Security checks delivered Jan. 3 will include a 3½ percent automatic cost-of-living benefit increase. Oliver Holmes, Social Security district manager in East St. Louis, is reminding Quad-Cityans.

The automatic increase, formerly made in July checks, was delayed for six months by 1983 legislation designed to strengthen the Social Security system. Future increases will also be made in January checks.

Social Security and supplemental security income (SSI) payments are increased automatically when the cost of living increases three percent or more from one year to the next.

Holmes said. His phone number is 274-4100.

Examples of the new benefit rates include:

The maximum monthly payment to a worker age 65 in 1983 will increase from $709 to $734, while the average monthly benefit for a retired worker will rise from $411 to $425.

The average monthly benefit for a retired couple will increase from $709 to $733. For an aged widow or widower, the average monthly benefit will advance from $380 to $393.

The average monthly benefit for a disabled worker, wife, and children will increase from $655 to $664.

GC choral group attends SUE clinic

Approximately 250 high school choral singers and their directors attended the 21st annual choral clinic on Nov. 17 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville (SIUE). The sessions were sponsored by the choral activities faculty of the University's department of music.

This year's clinic was guided by Leonard Van Camp, professor of music at SIUE and head of choral activities, along with Howard Swan, known nationally as the "dean of American choral conductors."

SWAN, WHO WAS professor of music at Occidental College from 1934 until his retirement in 1971, remains active and in demand at clinics and workshops throughout the United States.

In addition to discussing the importance of choral sound, the importance, and creative interpretation of the text, Swan urged both students and teachers to "sell" the music.

"Go home and tell your parents how much you like to sing!" he exhorted. "Make it known in your schools; tell your principals. Let everyone know what a wonderful experience it is to sing. Why should we leave 'experience' only to the rock groups?"

SWAN NOTED that he was impressed with the high level of interest among the high school musicians at the clinic. They worked hard to improve their performance levels during the various sessions, he said.

He also complimented the clinic's effective organization. He praised the staff, all students at SIUE, for their cheerfulness and willingness in helping manage the activities so that attendees would enjoy the day.

"Art is not art unless we express it," he said. "You are all artists. A part of the poem is you. It contains some of your ideas."

State bill encourages local prosecution of fraud cases

Local prosecutors would be further encouraged to prosecute welfare fraud cases by receiving a share of the recovered money under legislation signed by Governor James R. Thompson.

In cases where recipient fraud is committed against either the Department of Public Aid or local government agencies that receive state funds, any recovered funds used illegally will be distributed among prosecuting agencies and state government, according to Senate Bill 1206.

"As it stands now, welfare fraud cases often are forced to compete for the prosecutorial services of state's attorney's offices and other law enforcement divisions, sometimes resulting in investigations that should be pursued being dropped or left unsolved. This legislation will provide an incentive to follow through on these cases, recover stolen aid funds and prosecute those responsible," the governor said.

Under the bill, local units of government that receive state welfare funds and have been defrauded will be able to keep 25 percent of any money, profits or proceeds and any interest on property acquired or maintained with stolen funds. Another 25 percent will go to the state's attorney's office that prosecuted the case. The remaining funds will be deposited in the General Revenue Fund.

In cases where the state only was defrauded, all recovered funds would be placed in the GRF. Funds recovered by a state's attorney would be shared with that office and the state, with half of any non-federal funds, or up to 25 percent of the total amount, given to the state's attorney and the rest going to the state.

The measure takes effect immediately.

Other bills signed by Thompson included:—House Bill 2302, which allows the Department of Corrections, with written approval from the governor, to order the leasing of privately owned structures for correctional facilities. Under the plan, the Corrections Department must instruct the Department of Central Management Services to enter into a lease that can last no longer than 40 years and includes a provision that would allow the state to buy the facility.

The bill takes effect Jan. 1, 1984.

—Senate Bill 1119, which gives the Department of Transportation the ability to conduct demonstration projects to test new technology for road and curb construction. Other provisions of the bill call for the banning of ice and snow dumping along the shoulder of public highways, a step that will increase safety during hazardous winter conditions. The bill takes effect immediately.

—House Bill 2320, which lets funds earlier approved for the Capital Development Board to be used for construction of a Waukegan Port District harbor control building and a fish cleaning station. The bill takes effect immediately.

—Senate Bill 25, a bill that sets up Bureau of Employment Security procedures to help employers wishing to establish worksharing plans. Worksharing allows employees to be on the job for fewer hours to avoid layoffs. In return, the worker can receive unemployment insurance benefits for the hours of lost wages under the measure.

After employers submit a worksharing plan to BES, they must provide funds on a bi-weekly or monthly basis that will pay for UI claims workers are expected to make, a procedure that complies to federal guidelines. BES is responsible for determining employee eligibility, the amount they're entitled to and check processing.

Mrs. Corcoran says campaign 'going well'

Mrs. Helenmarie Corcoran, wife of U.S. Representative Tom Corcoran (R-Ill.), candidate for the Republican nomination for U.S. senator, recently campaigned for her husband in the Quad-City area as a guest of the Madison County Republican Organization Convention.

Serving his fourth term in Congress, Corcoran is seeking to oppose the incumbent, Sen. Charles H. Percy in the March primary.

Mrs. Corcoran said that her husband's campaign is "going well. We've raised over $500,000 so far and the money has come from 12,000 different contributors."

Republicans to 54 percent of the Republicans. And half of Percy's supporters haven't even heard of Tom (Corcoran) yet.

"I'm very pleased with this type of movement. And as soon as we get more people sensitized to Tom's name, then our next step will be to get them to listen to what he is saying."

"And when people listen to Tom (Corcoran), they will realize that they have a clear choice for the Republican candidate, because he and Senator Percy disagree on almost everything in the economic, foreign and social range — their differences are that broad."

Mrs. Corcoran said that she will campaign on the road about four days a week until the primaries in March. "I'm going to do whatever I can to help Tom. I'm even willing to disrupt my own personal life to see that his campaigning gets done."

When she isn't campaigning, Mrs. Corcoran is employed as a financial planner. She and her husband are the parents of five children.

BOY HELD FOR SWINGING BUTCHER KNIFE AT MOTHER

A 13-year-old boy was taken into custody at Coolidge Junior High School last week by police who took him to local juvenile authorities in connection with an incident the previous night in his home when he allegedly threatened his mother with a large butcher knife.

The incident occurred on Bradley Avenue when the boy was grounded by his mother and he allegedly became upset, ordered her to return the telephone cord to the basement phone and then opened a kitchen drawer, pulled out a large butcher knife and swung it at her several times, barely missing her.

When she defended with a chair, he threw the knife down, got a broomstick from the basement, returned and poked at her, she told authorities. She defended with a broom, forced him outside and told him to leave, she said.

GC man shot fleeing officers

James B. Geitz, 33, of the 2000 block of 13th Street, arrested at 2 p.m. Monday in Granite City on three warrants issued through St. Clair County to the Belleville Police Department, was shot about four hours later when he fled from police at Belleville City Hall. He was listed in stable condition Tuesday at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Belleville, where he underwent surgery Monday night.

Geitz was arrested by two Belleville police detectives, accompanied by a local police sergeant, at a business firm in the 3600 block of Nameki Road on warrants alleging deviate sexual assault, home invasion and indecent liberties with a child.

He appeared before Associate Judge George J. Moran, who ordered him into custody of the Belleville officers. Geitz was taken to Belleville police headquarters for questioning about the alleged charges, which were filed in connection with a Dec. 1 incident when a man wearing a stocking over his face entered a Belleville home through an unlocked rear door about 9:30 p.m., took a 13-year-old babysitter into a bedroom and sexually assaulted her.

Belleville Chief of Detectives Lt. Robert Hurst said about six shots were fired at Geitz as he ran through a revolving door at the back of the municipal building lobby and fled south at 6:15 p.m. Monday. He had been escorted by detectives to a drinking fountain in the lobby at the time.

Other shots were fired outside as the man continued to flee, the officer said, and Geitz collapsed in a yard in the 200 block of South Illinois Street, about a block from the city hall.

Geitz, who is considered dangerous, according to authorities, reportedly suffered wounds in his lower back and rear extremities, but was in stable condition.

When arrested last Monday, Geitz was awaiting trial on first degree burglary and sodomy warrants issued in August by St. Louis County Associate Circuit Judge Robert D. McCallister, authorities said.

He was free on a $90,000 bond in that case, which involved a July 18 attack on a 38-year-old woman from Ferguson, Mo., who alleged she was sexually attacked by an assailant who threatened to harm her daughter unless she did what he wanted. The daughter was in an adjacent bedroom.

Authorities said that Geitz had been held in the psychiatric unit at the Menard Correctional Center in Chester from 1969 to 1975 after having been declared a "sexually dangerous person" by a Madison County circuit judge. The ruling came as a result of a May 1966 rape charge.

Man is charged with burglary

Pontoon Beach police were summoned to the 4000 block of Kathy Drive early this week by an anonymous caller who reported two suspicious persons around vehicles parked in the area.

Upon the arrival of Pontoon Beach patrolmen Merl Hayden and Michael Crouch, the two subjects, who were allegedly attempting entry into a Blue Chevrolet van, fled the scene.

In searching the area, the two police officers noticed two persons enter the residence at 4061 Brune Ave.

Upon investigation of the residence, officers found a juvenile and an adult in the residence. The adult was hidden in the shower.

Through interrogation of the juvenile, the officers learned that the two suspects allegedly were the two attempting to burglarize the van.

The adult, John T. Davis of Caseyville, was charged with three counts of burglary. A mittimus was issued to Davis and he was taken to Madison County Jail on Tuesday morning.

Charges against the juvenile, who resides in Washington Park, are pending through the Madison County States Attorney's office.

ARREST TWO YOUTHS AFTER DISTURBANCE AT BUSINESS

Called to a weekend disturbance at the Granite City Game Room, E. 20th Street and Nameki Road, police found a 15-year-old Granite City youth in an apparent intoxicated condition. He declined to leave the premises and was placed in a squad car so officers could contact his parents. A 16-year-old Madisonian began to interfere and was advised to return to the game room or leave the area.

The boy, 16, allegedly used profanity and refused to comply. He began pulling off a sweatshirt and challenged an officer to a fight by raising his arm and clenching his fists. Minimum force was used to place him in the police vehicle and he was charged with assault and disorderly conduct, being released on $32 bail. The 15-year-old was released to his parents.

Four injured in Nameoki crash

Four persons were injured when the autos of Brenda Allen, 18, of the 1500 block of Clark Ave., and Gail Aery, 19, of Godfrey, collided on Nameoki Road at Clark Avenue last week.

Gail Aery was taken by a Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center and a passenger in her car, Randall Lario, 20, Rural Route One, Box 487, Granite City, was taken by his father to SEMC later. Neither was believed seriously injured.

Brenda Allen and a passenger in her car, Rhonda Allen, 15, of the same address, sustained minor injuries, but did not seek medical attention, according to police reports.

The Allen auto was southbound and the driver's vision was blocked by another auto as she turned east and collided with the southbound auto.

DUI charge results from 2-car accident

A driver and two passengers, including a 2-year-old child, sustained injuries in a two-car collision in the 2100 block of Illinois Avenue, occurring early this week.

William L. Harris, 24, of 2227 Bryan Ave., whose vehicle was southbound, and a northbound auto operated by Richard A. Mousette, 27, of 2326 W. 24th St., collided in the middle of the block, reports indicated.

Harris was injured and was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he agreed to have a blood test made to determine alcohol content. After being treated, he was released to police custody and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and failure to restrain a child.

The latter charge apparently was filed due to Crystal Harris, 2, whose address was listed at 2023 W. 20th St., a passenger in Harris' car, being injured in the mishap. The child also was taken by ambulance to SEMC.

Sherry Mousette, 27, of 2707 1/2 Cayuga St., a passenger in the Mousette auto, likewise sustained injuries and was transported by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Harris was released, pending a court appearance, at 4:25 a.m. Sunday after posting a $102 cash bond.

2 hurt in mishap on Madison Avenue

Two persons sustained injuries during the weekend when a northbound auto operated by Richard D. Renaud, 20, of 1517 St. Clair Ave., ran into the rear of a tractor-trailer truck, parked in the 2200 block of Madison Avenue.

Renaud who was hurt, according to reports, declined to be treated, but a passenger in his car, Jill A. Beck, 17, of 5 Barbara Court, also was injured and was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Renaud was charged with reckless driving and driving while his license was revoked. He was released pending a court appearance after posting a $202 cash bond.

The truck was owned by Jesse Clements, 2226 Grand Ave., reports said.

Girl, 12, injured by auto on Nameoki

Tanya R. Hayes, 12, of 2823 Victory Drive, was injured when struck by an auto during the weekend, while she was crossing Nameoki Road near Victory Drive.

According to reports, Tanya ran west across the road in front of a southbound vehicle operated by Patricia Presley, 45, of 2410 Edison Ave.

The girl was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

DRIVER HURT WHEN CAR SLIDES INTO TREE

Michael J. Kittel, 26, of 1741 Maple Ave., was injured in an accident early this week in the 2600 block of East 23rd Street and was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Kittel was unable to talk to officers following the mishap, but reports said it appeared from skid marks on the roadway that his vehicle had been heading east and began sliding, coming to a halt next to a tree in the yard of Donn Kinney, 2639 E. 23rd St.

HURT IN THREE-CAR CRASH

David Wallace, 36, of 2836 Pershing Blvd. was injured last week when the front of his car, northbound on Nameoki Road, hit the right side of the auto of Ray W. Bowler, 22, of 2600 Mockingbird Lane, eastbound to enter St. Clair Avenue. The Wallace vehicle next spun against the auto of Kenneth Motes, 3137 Jill Ave., who was westbound on St. Clair and had halted at the corner. Bowler was charged with failing to yield the right-of-way.

TWO HURT ON MARYVILLE

When Geneva Wienhoff, 43, of 2634 Whippoorwill Lane halted her car at a stop sign on Maryville Road at O'Hare Avenue last week, the vehicle was struck in the rear by the car of Steven Schewe, 30, Pleasant. Both drivers were hurt. Schewe being taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Fire-safe holiday season is the best

For a fire-safe holiday, the Office of the State Fire Marshal offers a reminder of how to save lives and property loss from fire during the holiday season.

"A list of do's and don'ts may not seem in the holiday spirit, but appreciation and practice of it may save lives," a spokesman commented.

NATURAL TREES. Be sure the tree is fresh, not dyed green. Except for the tree having been stored in extremely cold weather, the needles should be supple and bend, not snap.

When bumped on the ground, only a few, old needles should fall; a rain of needles indicates a dry, hazardous tree. The cut end should be sticky from sap, it was explained.

If you store the tree before decorating, keep it in a bucket of water in a cool place, away from heat and out of the wind.

Before decorating, cut one inch off the bottom of the tree to improve water absorption. Set the tree in water in a sturdy, non-tip stand. Guy wires may be used as needed for stability.

Keep the tree away from candles, TV sets, fireplaces, open flames and heat vents. Do not set it up in or near an exitway.

Add water in the tree stand every day. Plain water is best; absorption of other preparations may clog the trunk and prevent water absorption. When the needles are dry, discard the tree.

PLASTIC TREES. Be sure the tree carries the label of an approved safety-testing agency, the fire marshal recommends.

METALLIC TREES. Use only indirect spotlighting unless the tree has a built-in electrical unit with the label of an approved safety-testing agency.

Do not use decorative lights on a metallic tree.

LIGHTING. Replace worn insulation, loose bulb sockets and broken plugs. Be sure all lighting sets are testing-agency approved. Use only 15-ampere circuits.

Be sure decorative lights are not close to combustible materials. Do not use candles or open flame around or on the tree.

Do not use candles in decorations or displays. Make sure all decorative lights are turned off before going to bed or leaving the house.

Provide a switch away from the tree for controlling the lights. Do not crawl around or under the tree for any reason.

Indoor lighting sets should not be used outdoors. Be sure outdoor lighting sets, extension cords and fixtures are testing-agency approved.

DECORATIONS. Use only flame-retardant or noncombustible materials. Do not use untreated cotton batting, flocking, tissue paper or flammable foam plastics on or around the tree. Keep gift wrapping and electric toys away from the tree.

HOME SAFETY. If you use liquid fuel space heaters, be sure they are vented and have an adequate air supply. Be sure also that they are testing-agency approved, and be sure to read and follow the manufacturer's instructions.

Refuel the heater outside where there's plenty of air, e.g., the garage or patio.

Use only the correct fuel, which should be stored properly in a safe place. Keep the space heater away from all combustible materials.

Since half of Americans are unprotected by smoke detectors in their homes, install one now for year-round fire safety. Smoke detectors make excellent gifts for loved ones, the marshal is convinced.

Have an escape plan and practice EDITH (exit drills in the home). Instruct the babyrater in fire emergency procedures.

CELEBRATIONS. Be sure to keep exits clear. Provide large ashtrays. Dispose of smoking materials in covered, metal waste containers.

Don't dump matches or cigarettes and cigar butts in trash. Smoldering smoking materials can cause paper to burst into flames later.

The state fire marshal also suggests that local fire departments can be helpful on all fire safety questions and problems: "It pays to call them before there's a fire."

For information, Quad-Cityans may write or call the Office of the State Fire Marshal, 3150 Executive Park Drive, Springfield 62706; 217-782-7381.

Illinoisian
wins $2.8
million

Ron Stoterau of Hickory Hills, Ill., won $2.8 million by being the only Illinois State Lottery player to match all six winning numbers in the Dec. 10 lotto, it was determined Monday afternoon.

Stoterau, a 23-year-old student at the Taylor Business Institute, will receive a grand prize of $2,838,440 payable at the rate of $141,133 a year for 20 years.

This prize amount is the fourth largest individual prize in the history of the state lottery. Betty Gloss of Glen Ellyn, Ill., and Ken Natzke both have won $6 million and Findley Mahaffey of Mazon won $3.6 million.

Stoterau, who is engaged to be married, picked his numbers by using birthdays and the anniversary of when he met his fiancée. The numbers he chose were 01, 04, 17, 29 and 37.

In addition to the individual grand prize winner, there were 446 players who matched five of six winning numbers to collect a second prize of $1,078. There were 22,747 third-prize winners who matched four out of six numbers to win $31.50 each.

The guaranteed grand prize to a single winner for Dec. 17 is $2.5 million.

Urban may start
prison term soon

The Illinois State Supreme Court has denied a petition by Ben Urban of Collinsville to have his sentence on a theft charge reduced.

Urban, who pleaded guilty last December of stealing bond money involved in overweight truck cases in Madison County, was sentenced to three years in prison and ordered to pay $146,788 in restitution.

Unless Urban seeks a rehearing, he will go to prison Dec. 28 or shortly thereafter, his attorney, Joe Brown Jr. of Edwardsville, said.

By law, Urban has 21 days to file for a rehearing with the state Supreme Court. Brown said he had not yet discussed this possible action with his client.

Brown said all persons from this area are sent to Menard prison. But he said Marvin Goldenbersh, Urban's former attorney, has recommended that Urban be transferred to a minimum security prison such as the one at Vienna.

Brown said it will be up to the warden at Menard to decide whether or not to follow the recommendation.

If a transfer is granted, it will be that Urban would never mingle with the Menard prison population, Brown said. Urban had contended that the three-year prison term was too harsh and that the amount of restitution was too great. He said an illness he suffered from could not be treated adequately in prison.

His appeal lost in the Fifth District Appellate Court. That court said Urban had lost his right to appeal because he had not asked the circuit court to withdraw his guilty plea before he appealed his sentence.

WOMAN PUNCHED 3 TIMES

Debra Sanders, 2003 Washington Ave., Apt. 8, was struck three times late last week by a relative who was visiting her apartment. She said that after she was punched three times on her head, she threatened to call the police and the man left. She was advised to contact the city attorney to sign a complaint.

Venice, Nameoki, Chouteau, accepting home energy requests

The County of Madison, newly awarded an Illinois Home Energy Assistance Program, has formally launched the aid program.

The Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs, awarded a grant of $1,033,755 to administer the home energy assistance in Madison County. This program was formerly administered by the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission.

The Madison County EOC is not a part of, nor has it ever been associated with the government of Madison County.

The Madison County Community Development Department will be the local administering agency for the IHEAP program. The department began taking applications for energy assistance on Dec. 5.

The Community Development Department has contracted with the townships within Madison County to serve as intake sites for persons wishing to apply for home energy assistance. A list of the intake sites and their telephone numbers has been announced.

The county is recommending that persons interested in applying for energy assistance call and make an appointment prior to reaching the intake site in order to ensure that adequate time is allowed for the processing of their application.

Persons having general questions regarding home energy assistance may contact the Madison County Community Development Department at 692-6200, extension 5105, or the State of Illinois Energy Hotline, 1-800-252-8643 (toll free).

For additional information, they may contact the development department, 692-6200, extension 5105, attention Roshelie Williams. Intake sites for IHEAP applications include:

Chouteau Township office on N. Thorngate Drive, 9 to 12 and 1 to 4 weekdays, telephone 931-1110.

Nameoki Town Hall, 4250 Highway 162, 9 to 2 weekdays, 931-1230.

Venice Township office, 1505 Fifth St., Madison, 9 to noon weekdays by appointment only, 452-1121.

No intake site has been designated for Granite City.

Illinois Home Energy Assistance Program local administering agencies throughout the state began accepting applications this month from eligible households to help pay their energy bills.

The Department of Commerce and Community Affairs received from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services a commitment of $14 million for Illinois' share in this program in fiscal year 1984. IHEAP provides grants to income-eligible renters and home owners to pay heating and medically necessary cooling costs and to reconnect services lost.

"This program cannot pay all energy costs of the needy families in Illinois, but it can help reduce those costs by providing either a one-time grant to household or by paying the utility vendor directly," said Michael T. Woelffer, DCCA director. Eligibility for the IHEAP program is based on the number of family members and their combined income.

The IHEAP program began in November for households whose energy sources had been disconnected. In that month, 6,847 users had their sources re-established through the program. The regional agencies joined the program Dec. 1.

Families who think they may be eligible for IHEAP assistance may contact their local administering agency or intake site or call DCCA's energy hotline at 1-800-252-8643.

Madison County zoning board makes six recommendations

The Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals will recommend to the Madison County Board that Granite City Jaycees' request for rezoning of land to erect ball fields be denied. This was among six recommendations given after on-site hearings were conducted in late November and early December.

The Granite City Jaycees requested that zoning of land located along Maryville Road, south of Arnold Drive, be changed from an R-3 one family residence district to a B-1 limited business district. They wanted this change so that they could erect a soccer field, little league baseball fields and a clubhouse on the property.

Also recommended for denial was a request from Harold D. Sullivan to rezone a tract of land from B-3 highway business district to an M-2 general manufacturing district in Chouteau Township. This property is located near the intersection of former U.S. Route 66 and St. Thomas Road.

The board will suggest, however, that a special use permit and variation be granted to Thomas D. Viles to construct a pole-type building on the site for use as a garage in an R-3 multiple family residence district in Chouteau.

A special use permit for Hazel Martin to erect a single-width mobile home was recommended for denial by the board. The land is located off Route 111 directly across from Kelly Plumbing.

Recommended was a petition from William and Katie Barks for a special use permit to allow continued use of a mobile home being for as long as possible. This lot is at 1123 Meridian St.

Approval was recommended for the petition of Richard Childers and Sam Walker for a special use permit in order to continue usage of a mobile home at 2006 Collinsville Ave. in the Cloverleaf Addition.

39 traffic fatalities in this county

With two Madison County traffic fatalities in November, the county's fall for 1983 so far is 39, compared to 45 in the first 11 months of 1982.

Illinois traffic fatalities rose during November, the second consecutive month of increase, but still remain six percent below the 11-month total of 1982.

There were 122 fatalities as a result of 110 accidents in November, up 14 percent from the 107 deaths in November 1982, according to figures released by the Illinois Department of Transportation and Illinois State Police.

The provisional total of 1,421 fatalities for 11 months of 1983 is a decrease of 6.1 percent from the 1,514 deaths in the same period of 1982, and a decline of 16.3 percent from the 1,697 for the same period of 1981.

In November, 18 pedestrians were killed in 18 accidents; two pedestrians in two accidents; one person killed in a railroad crossing accident; and five persons killed in five accidents involving motorcycles.

Thanksgiving traffic brought 16 fatalities, compared to 21 a year ago, 26 two years ago, 31 three years ago, 22 four years ago and 36 during Thanksgiving 1978.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED

Attorney At Law

Frequently when a couple obtains a divorce, one or both parties is ordered by the court to do certain things. For instance, the wife may be ordered to pay the husband for his share of the equity in the home, and the husband may be ordered to deed his interest in the home over to his ex-wife. If either party fails to comply with the court order, the other person will have to bring them back to court.

If the court finds them in contempt, they will normally be given a chance to clear themselves by complying with the original court order. Often it may be important for the ex-spouse who has been wronged to return to court immediately. A recent case will help illustrate why this is so.

In this Illinois case, the husband was ordered to sign a quit claim deed granting his interest in the marital home to his ex-wife. He continually refused to sign this deed. They were divorced in 1976 and he did not sign the deed over to her until 1981. In that the original deed was in both names, tenancy until he finally complied with the court order in 1981.

In the meantime, the ex-husband took out a car loan in 1977 in his individual name. He failed to make the payments, and the car was repossessed. The bank then filed suit against him for the balance still owing after the car was sold by the bank. The bank obtained a judgment for $5,000 against the ex-husband, and a judgment lien was obtained against the real estate which was formerly the marital home. When the former wife attempted to sell the property in 1982, she was unable to obtain clear title to the property because of the judgment lien against the property.

In this case, the bank was able to attach a lien against the real estate because the ex-husband still had an interest in it. If the former wife had acted immediately in bringing him back to court to force him to sign the deed to her, this problem would never have arisen. Often people fail to return to court in this situation because they feel the expense will be too great, but it should be noted that generally the non-complying spouse will have to pay the attorney's fees of the other party.

Making Apple Butter is chapter topic

Mrs. Delores Dorch entertained the Laureate Alpha Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, in her home last week and presented a cultural program on "Making Apple Butter the Old Way."

To begin her presentation Mrs. Dorch gave the group a recipe for the apple butter and explained it is made outdoors by using a large kettle over a wood fire. The process of cooking includes constant stirring with a long handled wooden paddle with holes in the end to prevent the mixture from sticking. An experienced maker can tell when it is ready by taking a small spoon full, place it on a platter and make a hole in the center and if there is no juice evident then the sweet spread is ready to be poured in hot jars and tightly capped. This final process must be done very quickly, Mrs. Dorch added.

During the business session Mrs. Evelyn Tolliver, service chairman, reported that Christmas stockings are being made for three residents at nursing homes. She asked that each one bring a small gift to be put in the stockings and she also requested clothing for a young man in a group home.

The chapter Christmas party was held Wednesday at the Tolliver residence featuring a gift exchange and covered dish dinner.

Mrs. Dorch also announced the sorority City Council will meet again in January.

A late dessert course was served to those mentioned and to Juanita Calvo, Jane Stevens, Lora Lombardi, Martha Dyer, Norma Rains, Bea Brackett, Pat Tsigalaroff, and Imogene Forrest.

Shoppers have more Christmas tree choices this year

By SUSAN SIGNAIGO-WEICH
of the Press-Record

As each Christmas season goes by, shoppers are given more choices about Christmas trees. Not only can consumers choose between real and artificial, balsam or Scotch pine, but they also can choose their method of getting the tree — buying it off the lot or cutting it down themselves.

For those Quad-City area shoppers who prefer the quicker method of buying, Schermer's Garden Shop in Madison offers a wide selection of real and artificial trees. For those shoppers who prefer picking their tree from a forest full of trees, Goedeke's Tree Farm in Jarvis Township is one place to shop.

According to Schermer's Garden Shop owner, Leo Schermer, the store should sell 1,000 real trees and 200 artificial trees this season. The artificial trees range in size from 3 feet to 6½ feet tall. The price range for these trees is anywhere from $19.95 to $69.95.

Schermer says that the "latest thing" in artificial trees is silk, but his store also carries the traditional brush, pine and fir trees.

IN THE LIVE tree category, Schermer carries plantation grown balsams, Scotch pines, traditional Canadian balsams and Douglas firs. The balsams and pines range in height from 4 to 8 feet, but the Douglas firs are as tall as 16 feet.

The price range on the balsams and pines is $8 and up and the Douglas firs range from $25 to $50. Schermer recommended that those persons buying a real tree not keep the tree in the house for more than two weeks. He also stressed that customers should cut the butt (about a fourth of an inch) off the end of the tree after they get it home and put the tree in a stand that holds water.

FOR THOSE shoppers who want an even larger lot from which to select live Christmas trees, Goedeke's Christmas Tree Farm offers four acres of live trees. The price of any tree is $17 and the owners of the farm "do the cutting for you."

According to owner Vernon Goedeke, the farm mainly raises white pine trees, but they also carry some Scotch pines. The farm, which is located in Jarvis Township, is open from 5 a.m. until dark every day.

Granite City Assistant Fire Chief Joe Holder, cautions consumers to keep real trees in water to prevent them from catching on fire. He suggests that real tree owners buy commercial sprays to retard fire on trees or mix a flame retardant themselves.

THE FORMULA for flame retardant is: 10 ounces of borax acid, 20 ounces of borax and two gallons of water. This should be mixed well and then applied to real trees with a spray gun or hand pump sprayer.

Holder also cautioned consumers to check the wiring on their Christmas lights before putting them on their trees.

14TH CONSECUTIVE ILL. POWER QUARTERLY DIVIDEND

Illinois Power Company has announced the 14th consecutive quarterly dividend on its common stock. The action was taken by the firm's board of directors which declared a dividend of 6¢ per share on the common stock of the company.

The board also declared regular quarterly dividend on cumulative preferred stock, and a dividend of $1.05 on an adjustable rate preferred stock. These dividends are all payable Feb. 1 to stockholders of record on Jan. 10, 1984.

GC MAN CHARGED WITH DUI IN 3-CAR ACCIDENT

David LaRose, 31, Granite City, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol by Collinsville police at Illinois Route 157 and Belt Line Road after a three-car weekend accident. A witness said LaRose turned left from 157 onto Belt Line without an arrow signal, colliding with a vehicle approaching from the south on 157.

The driver of the vehicle was Robert Jardine, 19, Edwardsville. Police said a third vehicle, driven by Raymundo Otero, 35, Collinsville, was struck while stopped in traffic. In addition to the DUI charge, LaRose was ticketed for failure to yield the right-of-way.

New sales tax charts available from IRMA

On Jan. 1, 1984, seven new sales tax rates become effective in Illinois. In a communication to merchant members, Hugh E. Muncy, president of the Illinois Retail Merchants Association, emphasized the importance of understanding the change in sales tax rates.

The current issue of the Association's membership publication, "Retail News Briefs," points out, "Every merchant will get customer questions about the new rates. The majority of questions will probably be in the area of food and drugs, because most releases on this subject have indicated sales taxes will be eliminated." That is only for the state portion, the Briefs article emphasized.

The state portion of sales tax on food and drugs will be eliminated Jan. 1, however, the current one percent Municipal (MRO) and 1/4 percent Regional Transportation Authority (RTA) sales tax will continue to be applied to these purchases. Sales tax on general merchandise will increase one percent Jan. 1, statewide.

Merchants have been advised by IRMA President Muncy that none of the sales tax collection scheduled in use now will be valid in 1984. Sales tax rates on food and drugs for Chicago and Cook County will drop from four percent to two percent, the five collar counties from 3 1/2 percent to 1 1/2 percent, and the rest of the state will drop from three percent to one percent. Rates on general merchandise increase Jan. 1 as follows: Chicago moves from seven percent to eight percent, Cook County (excluding Chicago) goes from six percent to seven percent, five additional collar counties increase from 5 1/2 percent to 6 1/2 percent, and the rest of the state from five percent to six percent.

Tax collection schedules at the seven new rates, as approved by the Illinois Department of Revenue, may be obtained by writing Illinois Retail Merchants Association, 36 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill., 60603. Minimum order is three charts for $1 and each additional chart is 25 cents. Orders must be prepaid. Prices are available for larger quantities.

Funding for 15 coal studies

The Illinois Coal Research Board has approved funding of $371,677 in state revenue funds committed to 15 ongoing research projects and two new studies devoted primarily to converting Illinois coal into a clean-burning solid.

The board also decided to prepare a "request for proposal" for expenditure of $2 million recently made available by Governor Thompson for coal research from the Coal Technology Development Assistance Fund.

"The fact that Governor Thompson has chosen to maintain and increase his support for coal research in these difficult budget times is a measure of his commitment to the Illinois coal industry," said Michael H. Witte, chairman of the board and director of the Illinois Department of Energy and Natural Resources (ENR).

The $371,677 in funds granted by the Coal Research Board assures continued efforts in desulfurization of coal through such methods as low temperature coal charring and supercritical extraction, as well as two new research projects directed towards solving the problem of high chlorine content in Illinois coal.

Research concerning desulfurization of coal is, and will continue to be, a critical means to providing the answers to problems that face the Illinois coal industry," said Witte.

"Also, there is a growing concern chlorine in Illinois coal may be detrimental since there is some indication chlorine is a culprit in boiler corrosion and scrubber chemistry problems," he added.

Witte said two new chlorine studies the board approved are essential to understanding the relationship between chlorine and other characteristics of Illinois coal as it is burned to produce energy.

Funds amounting to $455,976 have been allotted to the Center for Research on Sulfur in Coal, a consortium composed of the Illinois State Geological Survey (ISGS), the University of Illinois (U of I) and Southern Illinois University (SIU), for 13 ongoing projects and the two new research studies. Funds also were granted for research at Eastern Illinois University and jointly to SIU and ISGS.

HOW TO MAKE THE MOST MONEY YOUR MONEY CAN MAKE.

With all the different interest rates it's hard to decide how to get the most for your money. One way to eliminate this uncertainty is to lock in today's high rates with one of our longer term CD's.

You can open one of these certificates for just $500. But with rates like these, you'll want to put most of your money to work making the most it possibly can.

Certificate of Deposit	Current Interest Rate *	Effective Annual Yield ** %
12 Month	9.75	10.239
24 Month	10.25	10.792
30 Month	10.55	11.124
42 Month	10.75	11.347
60 Month	11.0	11.625

*These rates effective from Nov. 22 through Dec. 5, 1983.

This yield achieved if principal and interest remain on deposit for the term. Federal regulations require a substantial penalty for early CD withdrawal.

YOU MAKE MORE MONEY EVERY DAY.

If you compare long term certificates, you'll find that some don't offer daily compounding. This means you're not getting the most for your money.

At Illini Federal, all of our long term CD's are compounded daily to give you higher yields.

We have lots of ways to give you the most for your money. To be sure which is the best way, come in and talk to one of our Financial Counselors. Make us your family financial center.

Luke 1:26-32

And in the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from God unto a city of Galilee, named Nazareth, to a virgin espoused to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David; and the virgin's name was Mary.

And the angel came in unto her, and said, Hail, thou that art highly favoured, the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women.

And when she saw him, she was troubled at his saying, and cast in her mind what manner of salutation this should be.

And the angel said unto her, Fear not, Mary; for thou hast found favour with God.

And behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son, and shall call his name JESUS.

He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Highest; and the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David:

And he shall reign over the house of Jacob forever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end.

Southern Illinois teachers to focus on writing skills

Twenty-five teachers from across Southern Illinois will be chosen to participate next summer in a special Southern Illinois University-Carbondale project aimed at helping them improve the writing skills of area high school students.

Focus of the SIUC 1984 Summer Humanities Institute for High School Teachers will be the teaching of writing skills across the curriculum, according to project co-director Bruce C. Appleby, associate professor of English at SIUC and president of the Illinois Association of Teachers of English.

"THE EXCITING thing about this project is that it will bring together teachers from several disciplines — from science, mathematics, social studies and English — to encourage them to use writing more in their courses," said Appleby. "Writing can be an effective teaching tool in any subject area, and we plan to encourage participants to develop a wide range of writing projects they can take back to their schools."

Scheduled for June 11-22, the program is funded by a $20,000 grant from the Illinois Humanities Council. Co-directors are Carbondale Community High School English teacher Gregory Johnson and Stephen A. Bernhardt, assistant professor of English at SIUC.

"A panel of area high school teachers will be selected to help us develop a workshop program that addresses the concerns of practicing teachers," said Bernhardt.

THE PROGRAM will include writing and criticism sessions, readings, lectures on teaching writing, and workshops on the use of the microcomputer.

"If teachers in all subject areas were better able to critique and help improve the writing skills of their students, we'd see marked changes in overall literacy levels and — consequently — standardized test scores," said Appleby. "In our opinion, the task of improving writing

Shorter workweek authorized at SIU

A shorter workweek for employees of the Southern Illinois University System, effective July 1, 1984, has been authorized by the SIUC Board of Trustees.

Trustees approved an amendment to board policy, establishing a standard workweek of 37½ hours. Under the plan, the president of each university in the system is to present an implementation plan to the chancellor for approval, and the chancellor will report the approval of each plan to the board. The implementation plan is to indicate the groups of employees affected by the plan, hours of operation, the estimated annualized cost and how the costs will be met.

Chancellor Kenneth A. Shaw said the length of the workweek has received attention at the universities during the past several years, particularly as other governmental employers have moved from a traditional 40-hour week to shorter workweeks. The State Department of Personnel has defined the workweek for employees under its jurisdiction as 37½ hours, and with the exception of the University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana, all other public universities in the state have adopted the 37½-hour week.

Under the SIUC System was not approved by the board in March, when university officers said they felt the proposal should be postponed until there were improvements in the economy and increased funding for higher education in Illinois. Chancellor Shaw pointed out at the meeting, that both have occurred. The chancellor said the most common reasons cited in support of a reduced workweek are improved employee morale, a reduction in inequities in compensation that exists between university employees and state employees, and an improved recruiting position for the universities.

Tri-City Speedway to open with new promoters

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

Last July 29th, when Tri-City Speedway closed prematurely for the second consecutive year, the future of Illinois' only remaining half-mile track looked bleak.

In 1982 the local raceway, billed as the "Gateway Fast Track," closed four weeks early. In 1983, its fate was swifter, closing five weeks early.

Dennis Scott, Tri-City Speedway promoter those two years, attributed the early closings to poor economic conditions in the area, plan and simple.

High unemployment, rising fuel costs and generally costly repairs and operating expenses of the cars attributed to the lack of driver and later fan participation at the raceway, Scott said.

Scott, frustrated by two losing seasons promoting the track, said he wouldn't be back for a third season. Instead, next year he plans to promote a track in Florida near his home — either Orlando's or Winterhaven's track.

Tri-City Speedway, which is a quarter-mile track. Consequently, Tri-City Speedway was facing 1984 without a prospective track promoter.

Elvis Doolin, Tri-City Speedway's owner for 14 years now recovering from cancer treatment, had operated and managed the track previously when it fell upon hard times, but for health reasons can't this coming season. Doolin, unable to find a promoter, once again announced the track was for sale.

By the middle of August, the time to begin planning a new season, there was still no promoter interested in the raceway. It appeared the coming season, at least, would never be.

For five months the track sat idle, its future unclear.

December arrives. Enter Bob Geaschel and Larry Quin, two racing enthusiasts who previously had racing promotion experience at Highland Raceway.

Geaschel, past president of the Southwestern Racing Association in Highland, and Quin, a former Highland track official, sought to buy Tri-City Speedway but lacked the financial backing. Instead, after forming their own auto racing promotions company (B & L Promotions), decided to lease the track from Doolin and promote Tri-City Speedway in 1984.

"We were considering buying the track, but when we couldn't come up with the money, we decided to lease it," Geaschel said.

"It's a fine track and from what I can figure, several drivers are interested in racing there," Geaschel said. "They're (area drivers) calling me, inquiring about the coming season. Some of these drivers have cars which haven't raced out there (Tri-City Speedway) in two or three years," Geaschel said.

In those last two years, several things changed in Granite City and the surrounding area. For example, the steel industry was suffering its worst economic slowdown in 50 years. Fuel prices were up. Interest rates were sailing and, in July 1982 — the middle of the summer racing

In the off-season after the shortened 1982 season, realizing that much of his clientele were traveling at least 20 miles to participate, Scott attempted to lure more out-of-town drivers to the raceway by including Winston (cigarettes) and NASCAR racing attractions and its point system at Tri-City Speedway.

In 1983, in addition to the Friday night regular shows which included season — Granite City's unemployment rate reached a post-World War II high of 21.3 percent.

"Our plan is to open the track to the driver who's in it for the fun. We want to get all those cars in the area which have been idle for a couple of years on the track again."

Briefly, many of those drivers who had cars which needed repair couldn't afford to fix them and those who did operate cars couldn't afford to run them.

"I think it all started with the oil embargo," Scott said assessing the decline of driver participation at the raceway. "The embargo and the increase of gasoline prices forced a change in the auto industry which forced layoffs and a general slump in the economy," Scott said.

In August, after the track had already closed, Doolin offered his a similar explanation for the track's early closings the last two years.

"It's the economy. Before people spend money on hobbies such as racing, they have to have food and pay taxes," Doolin said. "I really believe that's what the whole problem is. It's a matter of business."

According to Scott, at the end of the 1981 season, the year prior to his first season of promoting Tri-City Speedway, there were 65 sprint cars racing at the local raceway. At the beginning of the 1982 racing season, Scott said there were 38 sprint cars, only 18 of those 38 were still running, Scott said.

Scott's example mentions only sprint cars, but he said the decline in the number of participating sprint cars was indicative of the decline of all models of cars competing at the raceway.

By the end of the shortened 1982 season, Scott said "only a handful" of those racers competing at the local raceway were actually from Granite City.

"On any given night, 50 percent of the cars parked out there are from Missouri," Scott said. "Of the cars with Illinois plates, perhaps 30 percent of those are from Granite City."

Again, Scott attributed the decline of the local fans at the raceway to poor economic conditions.

late models, midgets, mini-modifieds and street stocks, Scott got as many as many racing-related businesses as possible to sponsor special shows at the raceway. Among them, Sieveking (special racing fuel supplier) Goodyear (tires) on May 27th, Bosch Beer Late Models Night, MARRA Midgets Night on June 18, Burger King Night on June 24, and Pennzoil Night on July 1. All was an attempt to lure more drivers and help defray some of the costs of operating the raceway.

The result, however, was the same. Comparatively speaking, things were even worse, a week worse. The 1983 season ended five weeks early, one week earlier than the year before.

Ironically, the very thing that Scott brought in to try and lengthen and strengthen Tri-City's racing season — the Winston and NASCAR attractions — were the things that auto drivers say doomed the 1983 season.

One such driver is Rod Bailey of Granite City. Bailey, who has been racing at Tri-City Speedway for 10 years, blew an engine in the early part of 1983 season. Consequently, he missed a big part of the shortened season.

Although "sidelined" due to the loss of his engine, Bailey was critical of the new NASCAR programs and the car and engine restrictions that accompanied the new programs.

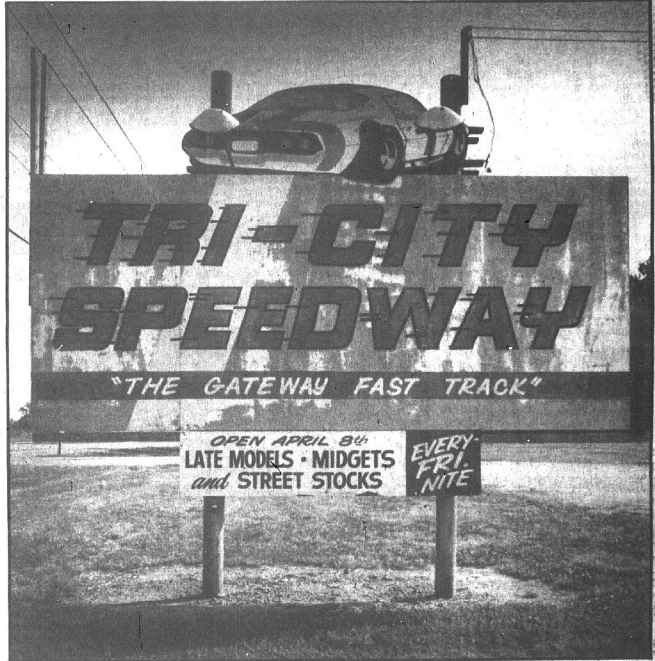

According to NASCAR regulations, all cars must meet certain weight requirements as well as carburetor and tire size specifications. "That's all fine and it helps keep racing more competitive, but it also means further investment for those drivers who have heavier, different carburetors engines," Bailey said.

That added expense, which Bailey estimated the NASCAR approved carburetor alone cost $700, just further aggravated the hobbyist racer.

"There's no way the independent driver can keep up with the costs," Bailey said. "Because of the NASCAR requirements, a lot of drivers who might have otherwise raced didn't."

Bailey said he didn't blame Scott for the NASCAR changes, stating he understood what he was trying to do. Bailey also cited the sagging economy as a reason for the lack of hobbyist driver participation. Because of the sagging economy, Geaschel, the NASCAR format will not be used at Tri-City Speedway in the coming season.

"Our plan is to open the track to the driver who's in it for the fun. We want to get all those cars in the area which have been idle for a couple of years on the track again," Geaschel said. "We want to make easy for those people who want to get a junked car, fix it up and race to do so."

Tri-City Speedway...
...reopening in 1984 with new promoters

For starters, Geaschel said his main concern is to get racing enthusiasts back to the track. To do that, admission will tentatively be set at $4.50 and pit passes will be tentatively set at $5. When Scott promoted the track, ticket prices were $8 and pit passes were $10.

To further entice racing drivers and fans back to Tri-City Speedway, Geaschel and Quin are forming the Tri-City Motor Sports Club, an organization solely for Tri-City Speedway drivers. The newly formed club has planned a meeting for Sunday, Feb. 12, at the Belt Line Center in Collinsville at 2 p.m. The center is located on the corner of Belt Line and Keebler St.

Thus far, B & L Promotions plans on using both Tri-City's tracks — the half mile for the modifieds and the quarter mile for sportsman and street stocks. Last year only the half-mile track was used.

"Both Larry and I are doing this (promoting the raceway) for the fun and for the drivers who want to race out there," Geaschel said. "We don't have to live off what is made out there."

Geaschel blamed guaranteed purses and high admission prices for Scott's failure to complete a full, scheduled season.

Initially, Geaschel said he estimates spending $2,000 for expenses per show, for ambulance, insurance and officials. The rest, he said, will go to the drivers. "We'll have to do it that way or we'll never make it," he said.

In his second year of as president at Highland, the Southwestern racing groups brought in a record $100,000 in gross revenue. Half went to the track owners and the other half to the drivers in purses.

Geaschel is hopeful to bring that kind of success to Tri-City Speedway.

Tri-City Speedway's 1984 season is scheduled to begin April 28 and will continue through Sept. 29. The weekly shows will be run on Saturdays.

Stars' Defender GCC's Moder named All-American

Rick Moder, a defender for the Granite City Center soccer team this year, has been named to the All-American second team of the National Soccer Coaches Association.

Moder, a freshman out of Rosary High School in St. Louis, was one of several Midwest Junior College Athletic Conference players named to the All-American team this year.

Goalkeeper John Stahl of Lewis and Clark Community College and forward Ted Hantack of Forest Park were named to the first team, defender Paul Miller of Florissant Valley joined Moder to the second team, and forward Greg Blasingame of Meramec was named to the honorable mention list.

This season, Moder scored seven goals and seven assists even though he was a defender.

"He had the best skills of anyone on the team. For a sweeper back, he got a lot of freedom to contributed offensively, and he was outstanding in the goal fans at the raceway to poor economic conditions."

"It's outstanding for a GCC player to have a national name on the team. It's great advertising for our program," Petri said.

Moder was also named to the All-Midwest junior college second team, and Jim Doyle, a freshman forward for the Stars, was named honorable mention on the All-Midwest team.

"It's always good for someone to receive recognition, and we hope in the years to come that a home town boy can be an All-American for us," Petri said.

Monday, Dec. 26, at 5:30 p.m. at the Croatian Hall in Madison.

The banquet will consist of dinner followed by a short program followed by an evening of dancing. Tickets for the banquet are $5 each and may be purchased from Dee or Phil Sheridan at Sheridan's Drug Store at 2301 State, 376-6226, Roseann or Ronney Rich, 2341 Dwight, 863-0485, or Judy and Terry Dutko, 2537 Buehner, 931-0992.

Last year the soccer banquet attendance was approximately 300. Those who attended included nearly 100 past Granite City High School players and areas throughout the United States. Also attending were current high school players, families, friends and various community members. Up to this point, the banquets have mainly revolved around the South High School community.

This year, however, the banquet is anticipated to be the most exciting and unique event ever.

In Quincy Sectional Three boxers win in Silver Gloves

Three boxers of the Mexican Honorary Commission's boxing team battled their way to championship last Saturday in Sectional Silver Gloves competition in Quincy.

The local champions are Derrick Bloodworth, Darrin Hahs and Joe Costoff.

Bloodworth, a 75-pound 13 year old, defeated Richard Graham of the Cass County Boxing Club for the championship.

"Derrick fought a good, hard fight," said Merce Mendoza, MHC's boxing coach. "He fought smart and counter punched extremely well."

Bloodworth earned the right to meet Graham in the championship fight by defeating Frankie Weishour of the Beardstown Boxing Club. Bloodworth scored a second round technical knockout of Weishour.

Hahs, a 70-pounder competing in the 10 and 11 year old division, beat Michael Austin of the A-1 Boxing Club of Quincy for that championship fight.

Costoff, MHC's 70-pound 12-13 year old division boxer, picked an easy Silver Gloves championship as he reached the final bout unopposed.

Other MHC boxers who competed in Silver Gloves competition but didn't fare as well include Jeff Kohler, an 80-pound 12-13 year old; Terry Davis a 90-pound 12-13 year old; Monte Morgan, a 65-pound 10-11 year old; Steve Morgan, a 70-pound 10-11 year old and Daryl Hahs, a 75-pound 10-11 year old.

Kohler picked up a victory in his first bout, a unanimous decision over Michael Rupert of the A-1 Boxing Club of Quincy, but lost to Derrick Humphries of the Washington Park Boxing Club in the championship match.

Davis, who Mendoza believes fought below his ability, lost a preliminary round matchup to Andrea Dean of the Washington Park Boxing Club.

"I was a little disappointed in Terry," Mendoza said. "He didn't fight as well as he did in our show last month."

Incidentally, Davis defeated Dean on two previous occasions.

Monte Morgan gained a bye in his first match which set up Saturday evening's championship against Michael Shaw of the A-1 Boxing Club.

Morgan began slow, allowing Shaw to score early, but came on strong in the second and third rounds to almost make up for his slow start.

Despite his flurry of punches in the second and third rounds, judges awarded the decision to Shaw for his more consistent match.

Steve Morgan, MHC's 70 pounder, lost to Terry Pratt of the Cass County Boxing Club. Morgan received a bye into the championship.

Hahs, MHC's final boxer to see action Saturday night, lost a three-round decision to John Spears of the Beardstown Boxing Club. Hahs, who was ahead on points in the match, was penalized two points for ducking too low. As it turned out those two points proved to be the difference in the match.

The three winners of Saturday's sectional Silver Gloves competition will compete in the state tournament on Jan. 7 and 8 in Quincy's Illinois Guard Armory.

Evans Record At 2-2

Red Devils breeze past Marquette, 96-62

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

VENICE — After two losses to two of the best Class A basketball teams in the area, Madison and Lebanon, the Venice Red Devils were due for another win, preferably an easy one.

Venice got exactly what it wanted at the hands of Alton Marquette Thursday. The Red Devils knotted their record at 2-2 with a 96-62 win over the Explorers in a non-conference game in Venice.

As the score indicates, the game was an easy one for Venice. After two lopsided games against the big boys, it was time for the Red Devils to relax and dominate Marquette.

Venice popped the nets from outside to bypass Marquette zone. And it wasn't just Eddie Salmond, the Red Devils' leading scorer. All six of Venice's top six players scored in double figures.

"We wanted to win this one bad," Venice Coach Clinton Harris said. "We played good defense and we ran the offense well. We took our time and we passed the ball and worked for the good shot."

The Red Devils worked so successfully that Marquette was never in the game. In the first five minutes of the game, Venice built up a 14-4 lead and didn't let up until the end of the game.

Venice spoiled Mike Waldo's return to the area basketball scene. Waldo, who was one of Bill Ohlen-dorf's assistants at Granite City North since 1979, is now Marquette's head coach. He was the first to admit the Red Devils were too fast for his Explorers.

Waldo also played for Ohlen-dorf, a former Venice basketball coach, while he was at North. Waldo is a 1975 graduate of that school.

"They sure did get down the court quickly, didn't they?" Waldo said. "We tried to counteract their speed with a zone, but they hit their first eight baskets mainly from outside, and we knew our zone wasn't going to stop them."

"We knew we couldn't match-up with them one-on-one so that's why we used the zone. However, when we saw the zone wasn't working, we decided to give our boys the chance to go man-to-man against them. In the long run, that's going to help us," Waldo said.

Salmond's outside jumper to open the game set the stage for Venice to rest of the way. Salmond led the Red Devils with 21 points, but he wasn't the only one who was hot.

Phillip White got in on the act with 14 points, Darren Wise and Victor Jackson added 11 points each, and Larry McShea and Craig Hamilton both scored 10 points to lead the balanced attack.

"Almost everyone who got in the game scored, and we had six people in double figures. That's a good note for us because that's what we've been wanting all season," Harris said.

In the two losses, Salmond and White had to take most of the scoring duties while the others weren't hitting the key baskets to lighten the load. Harris believes that all of his players have to score in Venice to win.

"We don't have a big team as our tallest person is 6-2. We have to get scoring from every man in the line-up to be a contender this year. I think we're going to get better as long as we continue to play as a team instead of individuals trying to increase their scoring averages," Harris said.

"We only have two losses, and it's early in the year," Harris said. "I think we learned something from the losses, and that will help us win some games."

While Salmond and McShea were hurting the Explorers from outside, White, Jackson and Hamilton helped with mid-range shots. Wise dominated the inside and closed the lanes to the Explorers.

Venice's offense scored 31 points in the second quarter to put the game out of reach. In the process, Venice missed only eight shots in 23 tries at the basket and forced five turnovers.

"Our ball control was good and we made good passes. The important thing for us is to keep passing and not hold the ball and look for the open man with a good shot, a 5- or 10-foot jumper or a lay-up from the side," Harris said.

As for Marquette, only two players scored in double figures, Todd Zinn with 17 points and Ken Taylor with 10 points. The Explorers sank 10-14 for the season with the loss.

"This was the only game we've been out of this season. We're a young team this year, and I think we're going to get better," Waldo said.

Venice resumes Illini-Gateway Conference play Friday with a 7:30 p.m. game in Worden. Worden is 1-4 for the season, and the Trojans only win this year came against Belleville St. Henry. That win broke a 40-game losing streak for Worden.

Trojanettes annihilate Pioneers

By PAULA WISE
of the Press-Record

DUPO — The Madison Trojanettes came back from a disappointing first half to soundly defeat the Pioneers of Assumption 65-34 Monday night in the first round of the Dupo Basketball Tournament.

Things looked bad for the Trojanettes from the beginning of the game. An Assumption player got the tip off and took it down the floor.

Only to be fouled by Madison's Kim Stanley. However, the Pioneers failed to capitalize and turned the ball over to the Trojanettes.

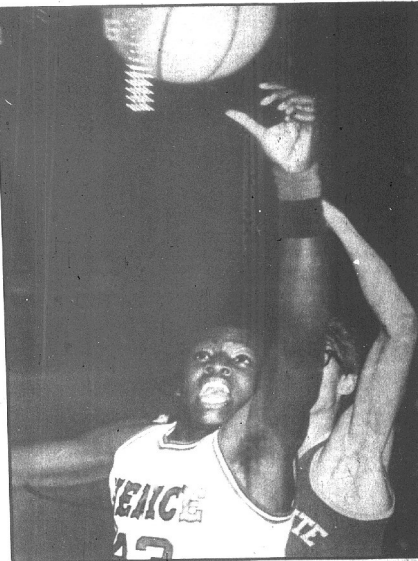

The next six minutes belonged to Madison. The Trojanettes scored only nine points, but aggressive defensive play kept Assumption from scoring.

Madison continued to press the Pioneers and eventually the Trojanettes pulled to a 12-2 first quarter lead.

In the second quarter, the Pioneers played the Trojanettes almost even. However, excellent inside shooting by Regina Banks gave Madison the edge and a 22-11 half-time lead.

The third quarter was all Madison with the Trojanettes matching their first half total of twenty-two points. Assumption opened the scoring before Madison's Angelette Dandridge and Regina Banks combined for ten straight points to give the Trojanettes the lead 34-15.

Madison's press continued to be to OHI NOI Venice's reserve center Lonzie Helms (43) tried to save the rebound for the Red Devils even though there was nothing he could do to keep it from going out of bounds. As it turned out, the miscue didn't hurt Venice as the Red Devils beat Alton Marquette 96-62 Tuesday in Venice.

For Redbirds, future brighter

NORMAL—The Illinois State University soccer squad ended the 1983 campaign with a 5-12-2 record. ISU's second straight losing season, but the final four games gave the Redbirds hope for the next season.

For most of the season the Redbirds started four freshmen, three sophomores, two juniors and two seniors, an inexperienced line-up against the best teams in the Midwest. However, inexperience seemed to have left the Redbirds in the final four games of the season.

ISU won three of its last four games with the only loss to NCAA Division I qualifier Eastern Illinois, which finished the season with a 17-2 record.

During the season-ending winning spurt the Redbirds had a 2-1 victory over NAIA playoff qualifier Sangamon State and temporarily knocked Missouri-St. Louis out of the NCAA Division II playoffs with a 3-1 victory in the final game of the season. It appeared to be the first time in 12 years the Rivermen had failed to qualify, but later developments got UMSL into the tourney.

In the final four contests, ISU freshmen scored five of the seven goals as Leo Guzman of Caracus, Venezuela, scored his only three goals of the season.

Over the Redbirds 19-game schedule, they were out-scored 46-21.

They will lose a big part of their defense with the graduation of forward/sweeper David James of Granite City (South) and goalie Matt Clark of Mt. Prospect (Forest View).

James is only the second player in ISU history to play all four years for the Redbirds and was named the Most Valuable Defensive player. The two-time co-captain and four-time letter winner ended his ISU career second in assists with 31, tied for second in goals with 27 and second in points with 85.

In addition to James, three other athletes from Granite City, Fritz Brewer, Scott Vickers and James Kelahan are members of the Redbird soccer team.

GCHS wins opener; pounces on Pioneers

By PAULA WISE
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — For the second night in a row the East St. Louis Assumption girls' basketball team became the victim of a Quad City prep team.

Tuesday night the Granite City Warriors did the honors by beating the Pioneers 69-45. Monday night Assumption was defeated by Madison in the first round of the DuPont Tournament.

After Assumption took the tip-off down for the two points the Warriors started rolling. Debbie Brandt put the first four points on the board for the Warriors before Assumption tied the score.

A Lisa Lilley jump shot and two Miss Brandt field goals gave the Warriors a lead which they never relinquished.

Nancy McClew added two more for the Warriors but was then forced to leave the game because of early foul trouble. Miss Lilley put in a basket at the buzzer to make the score 14-6 after one quarter.

Assumption started the scoring in the second quarter and pulled to within three before a Dawn Ifland score got the Warriors back on track.

After that it was all Granite City. Using the fast break, Warriors, Kathy Juhasz and Monica Fanning lead their team to a 20-point half-time lead.

The second half began where the first half had left off. The Warriors continued to use the fast break to build their lead over the Assumption team. Miss Lilley also contributed with several outside baskets to make the score at the end of three quarters 52-29.

"Lisa is definitely our only outside shooter," stated Warrior Coach Gordon Galbreath. "She jumps very well and is able to go over most of the players who guard her."

In the fourth quarter, the Pioneers played the Warriors almost even. The Warriors pulled to a quick 64-36 lead before a slight comeback by the Pioneers made the final score 69-45.

Besides being pleased with the shooting ability of Lilley Coach Galbreath was also happy with his team's fast break.

"The only way to beat height is to run. I think our fast break should be effective against all schools if the girls hustle and run it correctly," Coach Galbreath said.

However, Galbreath did see several places where his team needed improvement.

"We made alot of mistakes. Especially with the fundamentals. We weren't getting the ball in against the press and our guards were dribbling the entire length of the court instead of using a few quick passes," said Galbreath.

But overall Coach Galbreath seemed pleased with his team's performance.

"I think tonight's game was a good one for a first game. It helps the girls and I see what we need to work on," stated Galbreath.

The Warrior junior varsity also posted a win over the Pioneers by the score of 67-34.

The Warriors next match is Thursday at Riverview Gardens. The junior varsity game will begin at 4 p.m.

Downtown neighbors get together for feast

Red candles, red bows and glowing fires cheered the rain-soaked members of the Downtown Neighborhood Restoration Society as they visited five area homes Saturday as part of their annual Christmas Progressive Dinner. Those attending had to dodge puddles as they went from house to house on Cleveland Boulevard and Delmar Avenue. Umbrellas lined porches at each stop as folks inside progressed with their yule feast. Sitting was of a casual nature. Guests perched on stair steps, leaned against walls, showing off holiday decorations, and sat on floors.

FOUND GUILTY BY JUDGE

A finding of guilt has been reached by Associate Judge Edward Ferguson, who sentenced Danny Dawson, 31, Granite City, to a six-year prison term for an April 4, 1982, rape in Granite City. The possibility of a guilty plea was brought up for discussion but there was no such plea this fall. The finding and sentence followed, and a second count was dismissed.

Percy seeks to increase government productivity

Increases in federal workforce productivity would reduce government costs by as much as $4.5 billion without reducing the level of services, according to a General Accounting Office (GAO) report released today by U.S. Senator Charles H. Percy (R-Ill.).

Federal agencies are overlooking productivity management as a way of controlling costs, the congressional watchdog agency charged in the study requested by Percy in November 1981. GAO found that while there are individual initiatives directed at productivity, government agencies do not have a comprehensive, systematic approach to productivity improvement comparable to those that are being used effectively by a number of major corporations. Increases of 1 to 5 percent in federal workforce productivity would reduce government expenditures by $1 to $4.5 billion, the agency said.

"At a time when we're looking for ways to reduce government spending and curb the deficit, it only makes sense to encourage productivity which will save the taxpayers money by making the government more efficient," Percy said. "Implementing a productivity management program would make the business of government more business-like."

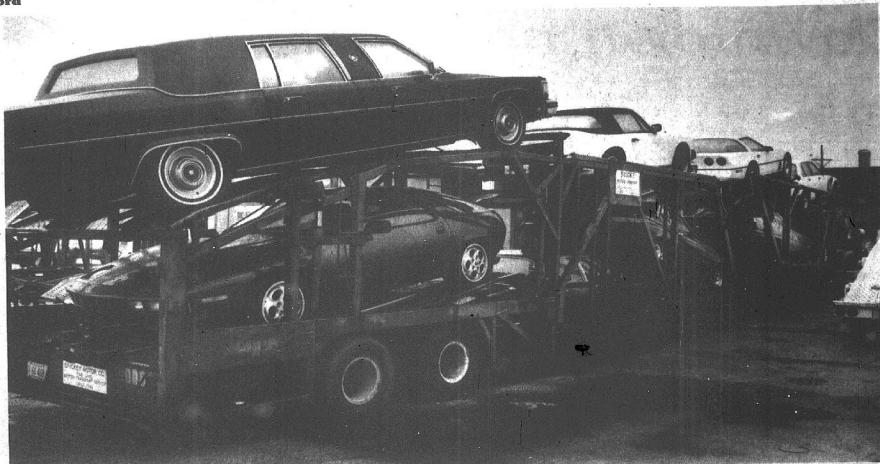

Productivity is a measure of how efficiently resources are transformed into goods and services. Productivity management is a management approach that involves developing an organizationwide productivity plan with goals and accountability mechanisms.

The GAO found that federal government productivity has grown at an average annual rate of 1.5 percent in recent years, a relatively low rate in the opinion of experts and in comparison with the experience of many public and private organizations that have productivity management efforts.

One reason for the lack of interest in productivity improvement, GAO said, is the lack of interest in it by the government's central management agencies. "A cost-conscious federal government must look for ways to encourage the productivity of its workforce," Percy said. "GAO has identified a way to reduce government costs that the Office of Management and Budget should seriously consider and incorporate in its suggestions for the upcoming budget."

Percy authored the Debt Collection Act of 1982 which has already saved the government $3 billion by giving it collection tools used by the private sector. "We must do everything we can to make the government a well-oiled machine that makes efficient use of taxpayer dollars," Percy said.

A CARLOVER'S DREAM. Persons who saw this car transport truck parked in Granite City during the weekend, probably took a second look at the load it was carrying. The Brickley Motors transport wasn't loaded as usual with 1984 cars, but rather a collection of cars any carlover can truly appreciate. On the top, from left, are a Cadillac limousine, a Porsche, a 1984 Corvette and a Jaguar sedan. On the bottom are another Porsche, a second Jaguar, a Mercedes-Benz and a Maserati.

Park District has special holiday ice rink schedule

The Granite City Park District is offering a Christmas holiday schedule again this year for the Wilson Park Ice Rink.

On Friday, Dec. 23, a special afternoon session will be offered from 1 to 3:30 p.m. Admission is free to those with a park district ID card. A regular skating session from 7 to 9:30 p.m. will be available as well.

On Saturday, Dec. 24, the only public session available is from 1 to 3:30 p.m. The rink will be closed after that session until Monday, Dec. 26.

On Dec. 26 through Friday, Dec. 30, a special session will be offered each day from 1 to 3:30 p.m. There will be free popcorn or a free soda for each admission ticket purchased.

On Wednesday, Dec. 28, a special adult session will be offered in the morning from 9:30 to noon. Admission for those out of high school and older is 75 cents per person. A child-sitting service will be offered during this session for children four years of age or older while the adult session is in session.

Evening sessions from 7 to 9:30 will be offered Dec. 26, 28, 29 and 30 at the Wilson Park Ice Rink.

The regular ice rink schedule will be followed on Saturday, Dec. 31, and Sunday, Jan. 1.

PARK DISTRICT SPONSORS ROLLER SKATING SERIES

Free roller skating sessions, sponsored by the Granite City Park District at Stoppokette's Roller Rink, 19th Street and Cleveland Boulevard, will resume Wednesday, Jan. 4, it was announced today.

Sessions are scheduled each Wednesday from 4 p.m. until 6 p.m., with exception of Wednesdays, Dec. 21 and Dec. 28.

No admission is charged at the weekly sessions, although young skaters must pay a 75-cent skate rental fee, a park officer said.

Residents wishing to hear the singers should turn on their porch lights.

The annual HOLIDAY BAKE SALE of St. Cyril and Method Church, 4770 Maryville Road, will take place from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 16. A variety of homemade baked goods will be offered, including Christmas cookies, baklava and holiday breads.

Talk and support

LOW-INCOME RESIDENTS facing heating problems may seek help from noon to 1:30 p.m. Friday, Dec. 16, from the New Life Evangelistic Center winter relief truck. The truck will be parked on the Johnson Road side of the Bellemeor Village Shopping Center, near Kentucky Fried Chicken. Quad-City residents whose home heat has been shut off, or who fear such action in the future, will be offered blankets, weatherization material and tips on keeping warm. Some electric heaters will be available for distribution, and applications may be submitted for kerosene heaters. Financial aid also will be discussed. Persons seeking help should be aware that the project will be taped by TV Channel 24, owned by the New Life Evangelistic Center. Donations of food and clothing also will be accepted.

Southern Illinois DIVORCED AND SEPARATED CATHOLICS will meet for a Christmas pollock dinner at 7 p.m. Friday, Dec. 16, in Eckhard Hall at St. Boniface Church, 110 N. Buchanan, Edwardsville.

Toys for tots

SOUTH-WESTERN CABLE TV, INC. will give residents until 5 p.m. Friday, Dec. 16, to participate in the "Toys for Tots" program. Free installation of cable television service will be given in exchange for toys valued at $5 or more. The toys will be given to the U.S. Marine Corps, which distributes them to needy area children. Those interested in more information may call 877-8743.

Entrance test

The entrance examination for ASSUMPTION HIGH SCHOOL will be given at 10 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 17. The testing fee is $5. Interested eighth graders may register by calling 397-2796.

Holiday dinner-dance for GC seniors

The traditional Christmas dinner-dance for senior residents of Granite City Township will take place Wednesday, Dec. 21, at the township center, 2060 Delmar Ave.

This is the 13th year that Granite City Township Supervisor Nelson Hagnauer and the township staff have sponsored the yuletide event.

No charge is made those taking part, who must live within the township boundaries and be 55 years of age or older.

A turkey dinner with "all the trimmings" will be prepared by the township office staff and served at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, according to Hagnauer.

Dinner will be followed by music for dancing, played by Howard Bolton and the Alley Cats Orchestra, from 6:30 p.m. until 9:30 p.m.

A colorful Christmas tree already decorated the township center and Santa Claus has agreed to pay a call on the night of the dinner-dance, Mrs. Bernice Hagnauer advised.

The township shuttle buses will be operating Dec. 21 and persons without transportation to the affair may call 877-8894, as soon as possible, to reserve a ride, the supervisor said.
